Much Speculation Current As to Archer's Proposed New Game Law.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, December 30.—The seventy-fifth general assembly of Ohio will convene a week from today. The legislators will arrive here this week in time for the caucuses of the Republicans and Democrats, which will be held on Saturday. This week will see the end of the factional embroglio one way or another, and by Saturday at the farthest, it will be known definitely whether Price, of Athens, the Foraker candidate, or McKinnon, of Ashtabula, will be the next speaker of the house.

The speakership fight is the one which has been drawing closest attention, with the clerkship contest next. The minor positions to be parceled-out have not been factors in the trouble, and will probably be disposed of on a basis of equity, rather than in accordance with the preferences of factional participants.

Representatives Samuel Buell, of Salem, and Daniel W. Crist, of Moultrie, will come to the state capital absolutely unpledged. They have been urged to declare their preferences, but their answers have been to the effect that they have none. What their attitude will be in the coming caucus, where the organization of the legislature will be agreed upon, is a subject of much speculation. The McKinnon following claim both Buell and Crist will support their candidate, while the Price cohorts say Crist will be for their man. All this is purely conjectural, however. Both gentlemen will not tolerate any dictation as to how they shall vote and will act in accordance with their own convictions.

In announcing his intention of supporting Archer for president pro tem of the senate, Senator-elect Charles C. Connell, of Lisbon, violates no proprieties. His position is not misunderstood. Archer is the Foraker candidate and Mr. Connell could not be otherwise than for him, because both are from the same district, and besides he believes him to be fully qualified for the honor. Mr. Connell is not looked upon as a factionalist in spite of his having indicated his choice. He is expected here about the middle of the week.

Senator Archer will introduce a new game law which was drafted in this city Saturday afternoon at a meeting attended by members of the game commission and representatives of leading sporting clubs of the state. The bill provides for the protection of song birds, killdeer, swallow, blue bird, meadow lark, gull or buzzard and prohibits the destruction of young in nests.

The open season is as follows: Quail or wild turkey, November 10 to December 15; woodcock, dove or squirrel, September 1 to December 15; rabbit, November 10 to December 15; rail plover, September 1 to December 15; and March 15 to April 15; wild duck, wild geese, wild swan, coot or mud hen, September 1 to December 15; other varieties of wild ducks, March 15 to April 15. Quail must be shot while flying. Hunters will be required to pay $1 for a license, or if non-residents, $25.

Fishing boats will be taxed. Fees will be used in preserving the game. Trot line fishing is prohibited in public streams, lakes and reservoirs with more than three hooks on a line and in fishing for turtle seines with meshes less than five inches in diameter must not be used.

DYING CONFESSION

Survivor of Three Concerned in Murder Repents And Tells.

Bellaire, O., December 30.—A murder mystery that has puzzled the officers of this city for almost two years has been cleared up by a death-bed confession.

In March, 1899, the body of Frank Lopeman, a glassworker, was found with a bullet in his head, under a little bridge over a run in the heart of the city. No clue was ever found.

John McCaffery, a saloon keeper, is alleged to have made a death-bed confession that he killed Lopeman. The story has just got out that McCaffery killed Lopeman in a saloon row, witnessed only by a colored man and James Barr, a hack driver. The colored man died under suspicious circumstances shortly after the Lopeman affair, and Barr, too, died. The colored man, so the story goes, covered up all traces of the affair, put the body in Barr's hack and drove it to the place where it was hidden. The three men who had a hand in the affair are now all dead.

ENCOURAGING REPORT

MADE TO POTTERS' ASSOCIATION
SATURDAY EVENING.

Committee Who Visited Trenton Successful in Their Mission.

A called meeting of the Western Manufacturing Potters' association was held in the Potters' club, Fifth street, Saturday evening. While there was a large attendance the meeting it is said, was called for the purpose of hearing a report from W. E. Wells and H. A. McNicol, who returned Saturday from visiting several manufacturing potters at Trenton.

As noted in this paper exclusively last Friday, the visit of these gentlemen to the east was for the purpose of securing the consent of several eastern manufacturers to conform to the uniform selling price list as agreed upon at the last meeting of the National association at Pittsburg.

While it was generally understood at the annual meeting that these manufacturers would conform to the selling price list, a few details remained to be talked over, hence the visit of the East Liverpool potters to Trenton. Their visit was quite successful, as assurances were given that the present selling list would be closely adhered to.

SPARK FROM A TOY GUN

Store, Causing $200 Damage.

A small fire broke out yesterday afternoon in the fruit house and confectionery of H. Redick on West Market street. Small boys were discharging cap pistols when a spark from one of the toy guns ignited the cotton that covered the soda fountain in a Christmas exhibit of the store.

The light material was very inflammable and the small room was soon in the appearance of a miniature holocaust.

W. M. Bucher, clerk in the store with a few persons assisting, put out the fire. Damage was done chiefly to a few glass cases and a stock of oranges. It amounted to about $200, covered by insurance.

DUCTS NEARLY ALL LAID

Telephone Construction Gang Making Progress in Putting Wires
Under Ground.

Supt. William Pidgeon, of the Bell Telephone construction gang, had his men busy this morning cleaning rubbish from the streets. All of the ducts have been put in for the cables except under the Horn switch on East Market street. That job will be finished this week.

Another gang is expected to arrive Wednesday from Steubenville to erect poles for the terminus. Mr. Pidgeon's gang will be at work nearly all winter in East Liverpool.

GOOD OIL WELL

One That Produces 50 Barrels a

A 50-barrel oil well has been struck on one of C. A. Smith's leases near Woodsfield, Monroe county. The well was struck on Saturday.

Mr. Smith went down today to look after his interests there.

A small fire happened at noon at Center alley and Jefferson street. Some rags stuffed in a grate on the second floor of apartments occupied by Mrs. Emma Scott became ignited from sparks dropping down the chimney. Damage $40, to bedding and wearing apparel.

Death in Dates.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Nellie, the eight-year-old daughter of Charles Householder, of Empire, died suddenly while visiting friends here. She had been in good health, but ate a quantity of dates which probably caused death.

HIGH WATER IN THE OHIO

Lookout for a Big River Here.

IT MAY REACH 30 FEET

Things Being Got in Shape to Avert Damage—Lots of Floating Ice in the Stream Just at Present—Conditions Above Lead to Uneasiness.

The old Ohio is on another rampage, and by tomorrow noon it is expected to be at its height. Gus Martindill, proprietor of the wharf boat, received telephone messages at an early hour this morning from the coal combine of Pittsburg, asking him to be on the lookout for floating craft.

At Pittsburg the information bureau early this morning stated that the river would not go beyond the rise of a few days ago, when it suddenly reached a mark of 25 feet in East Liverpool and did much damage to Foster's coal flats at the foot of Washington street, piling a mass of shanty boats and barges on the Surles abutment.

Monongahela river ice had gone out by Sunday afternoon, but at 2 o'clock this morning ice commenced floating from the Allegheny and a heavy rise was reported from that stream.

It was announced that the river would not above 25 feet, but at 10 o'clock particulars of more alarming purport reached the city to the effect that the river would perhaps exceed the recent rise and go to 30 feet.

There is a general hustle among rivermen to meet the emergency. Much damage is reported in Pittsburg, but this point will not likely be materially affected, as the rise is looked for. The river is filled with heavy ice and swelling every hour. One could carefully step from shore to shore on the floating cakes during the day.

A later report has it that the Monongahela is rising and only a cold snap will stop the flood.

Boats are running in good order now but will perhaps meet with delay from the ice flow. The Ben Hur is due down at 4 this afternoon and the Keystone State at 9 p. m. The Queen City will be up tomorrow from Cincinnati.

SEEKING A DIVORCE

Miss Alice Jackson, of Salem, Charges
Her Husband With Desertion.

Lisbon, December 30.—(Special)—Mrs. Alice Jackson, of Salem, has brought suit for divorce from William Jackson. The petition states that they were married April 4, 1896, in Salem. One child, Mary, was born of the marriage, and is now five years old.

For more than three years, the wife alleges, Jackson has been wilfully absent and the care has devolved on the mother. She asks for the custody of the child.

HIBERNIANS' VISIT

A Large Number of East Liverpool
Members at the Toronto
Institution.

A large delegation of the members of division No. 3, A. O. H., went to Toronto yesterday, where a class of about 25 new candidates were shown the mysteries of the order. Members of the order were present from Steubenville.

The Toronto degree team conferred the work and a very enjoyable time was spent.

Marriage Licenses.

Lisbon, December 30.—(Special)—Jacob Neihisel and Agnes O'Hanlon, East Liverpool; Clarence Highfield and May I. Smeltz, East Liverpool, have been licensed to marry.

William L. Weikert and Laura Belle Burton, Washingtonville; Harry S. Leigh and Emma J. Kenney, East Liverpool.

The Store Still Closed.

The Livinston store remains closed. Deputy Marshal Fanning completed the inventory Saturday evening and left for Cleveland, putting the store in custody of Appraiser J. H. Allison. Nothing will be done until there is a further court order fixing the trusteeship, but whatever action is taken the stock of goods will probably be sold in a legal auction.

MOTORMAN HURT IN A COLLISION

Northside Car Ran Into the Work
Car, Causing a Serious Wreck.

LINE CAR WAS SMASHED

And Inspector Raphael Bettridge Had His Foot So Badly Crushed That Amputation May Be Necessary.
Passengers Badly Scared.

A collision between two cars of the East Liverpool Railway company near the Thompson pottery, between midnight and 12:12 o'clock this morning, resulted in the injuring of one employee and the wrecking of the line car so much that it will probably be taken off the road permanently.

The Calcutta hill car, in charge of Motorman William Humble, left the Diamond at midnight for the Second street switch. What time this car left the Second street switch was not known at the office of the company at noon, but soon after 12:06 o'clock this morning the car was passing the Thompson pottery. The line car, in charge of Raphael Bettridge, was coming west at the same time and both cars met near the pottery. A collision was the result, as neither motorman had time to stop his car.

While the speed of both cars was not great, the collision was strong enough to almost completely wreck the line car. The damage to this car was so great that it may never be used again. While both motormen tried hard to avoid a collision, Bettridge was injured so badly that he will be unable to resume his work for some time. His car was so constructed that little room was left for a motorman to escape in the event of a collision.

Bettridge, it is said, tried to escape injury, and in jumping back into the car his right foot was caught in some manner just as the two cars came together. The foot was badly crushed and it may be that amputation may be necessary, although the attending physician states this will not be done unless it is absolutely necessary. Bettridge was removed to his home in the West End from the power house in the ambulance.

The front of the line car was smashed completely. The bumper on the north side car is much higher than that on the line car, which permitted the east bound car to crash into the line car with terrific force. The cabin, platform and a part of the roof of the line car was mashed to splinters, and the wonder is that Motorman Humble escaped injury. Some glass in the Calcutta hill car was broken from the force of the collision, and the four passengers in this car were considerably shaken up, but not injured.

The railway company a few weeks ago considered the idea of taking this line car from the road, as it was considered almost useless. The body of the car was for a long time used as a waiting room, being placed at Oakland, near the old East End loop. It was the oldest body used for any purpose whatsoever by the company. Now that it is wrecked a number of barn men are now working on another car which will be used for line purposes. This car has been used in the past as a salt car and in many respects resembles the car used at present for freight purposes. It will be a few days before this car is in readiness to place on the road.

Bettridge, before he became an inspector for this company, was employed as a night barn man by the East Liverpool & Rock Springs Street Railway company.

ADJUDGED INSANE

William E. Moore, of East Liverpool,
Will Be Sent to Massillon

Lisbon, December 30.—(Special)—William E. Moore, of East Liverpool, on Saturday was adjudged insane. Application has been made for his admission to the Massillon hospital, and he will probably be taken there this week. He is now in the county jail.

IN PROBATE COURT

An Appraisement of Partnership Assets Ordered—An Old Case Reinstated.

Lisbon, December 30.—(Special)—On application of Frank B. Sprowl an appraisement is to be made of the assets of the partnership of McCracken & Sprowl, Salem township. This appraisement is made necessary by the recent death of William McCracken. The appraisers are Norman Brem, Lycurgus Peppel and Benjamin Windle.

On motion of the plaintiff the case of Mary J. Matthews, administrator, against Charles Matthews, has been reinstated. The case had before been withdrawn on motion of the plaintiff, but when the estate was settled it was found that the debts exceeded the amount of property in the hands of the administratrix.

CLOGGING UP OF WATER PIPES

WILL SOON BE A THING OF THE PAST IN THIS CITY.

When the New Reservoir Is in Use
Present Difficulties Will Be Overcome.

Because of the fact that the water is being pumped from the river without being filtered many stoppages of water pipes occur by the lodging of pebbles from the mains in the smaller pipes.

Plumbers are unable to meet the demands on their service and have had a good deal of difficulty in locating the places where the pipes are stopped. A plumber said this morning that in most instances the obstruction was found in the street where a tap had been made in the main.

It will be a few weeks before troubles of this kind can be obviated, as water can be admitted to the old basin only when the wing walls are in position to brace the reservoir.

The soft weather has been a blessing to the repairing that is being made at the reservoir, and if there are a few more days like the past week has been Supt. Morley will be able to finish his task in good shape.

However, it will not be advisable to fill the basins too quickly as disastrous consequences might ensue. The water will have to be admitted slowly and the walls be permitted to settle gradually under the weight to be sustained.

Pumping of water direct from the river has done one good thing, and that is to call public attention to the need of a better filter. When the water passes through the old filter it is not perfectly filtered and a modern process like the use of alum is being urged by many individuals.

Physicians declare that much of the recent sickness in the city may be attributed to the use of the city water, but with proper filtration, by which fecal substance could be removed, the water of East Liverpool would be as wholesome as that furnished any city in the country.

Additional laborers were put on the reservoir repair job this morning and a force of men was also set to work on the excavation for the four-inch main that is to be laid in the East End.

HIS OWN ATTORNEY

H. H. C. Hammerton Acted in That Capacity in a Civil Suit,
But Lost.

A lively civil suit occupied the attention of Justice J. N. Rose this morning. G. Y. Travis, trustee for Will Reed; J. A. Farrell and Edward Rigby brought suit on a chattel mortgage note held against H. H. C. Hammerton and wife. The note is for $500 and dated January 4, 1901.

The plaintiffs accepted a chattel mortgage as security, $60 payments to be made each six months.

Mr. Hammerton was his own attorney, and contended that the matter was out of the jurisdiction of the justice's court, that the whole amount should be sued for in the common pleas court instead of the first payment. He also claimed that he had paid Mr. Reed $500, which was denied by Mr. Reed.

Judgment was rendered against Hammerton for $60 and costs. Hammerton declares that he will appeal to the common pleas court.

ADDRESS BY T. J. DUFFY

The Feature of the Dedication of Massillon Trades Assembly Hall.

The principal address at the dedication of the new Trades Assembly hall at Massillon yesterday was made by T. J. Duffy, of this city, national secretary of the Brotherhood. Mr. Duffy's talk was an eloquent and forceful one. The Massillon Central Trades organization is a strong body and wields a strong influence in the community.

Mr. Duffy left Massillon last evening for Wheeling, where he will visit friends for a few days.

WILL DISCUSS LIBRARY UNION

Joint Meeting of Boards of Two Institutions Called For

PLAN OF CONSOLIDATION

Is Quite Likely to Meet With Opposition, as Certain Adherents of the Public Library Are Strongly
Against Merging With Carnegie.

A joint meeting of the board of directors of the public library and that of the Carnegie institution has been called for this evening.

The meeting will be held in the office of Attorney J. H. Brookes, and it is expected that a good representation will be present from both bodies.

Now that the Carnegie library has reached a point in the perfection of its affairs that the directors can take up the task of equipping the institution they have thought it wise to consult with the board in control of the present library. The meeting tonight has been called for the purpose of talking matters over with a view to consideration.

From what could be gathered in talking with a number of men who have been active in their support of the old institution, it appears that the Carnegie directors have a difficult task on their hands.

It is said that the consolidation will be resisted by many of the labor people. The claim is made that the men and women who took an active part in establishing the library and through whose efforts the concern has been maintained for several years have nothing in common with Carnegie or the institutions he founds.

STRUCK WITH A POKER

Youngstown Doctor Knocked Down
And Probably Fatally Hurt.

Youngstown, December 30.—Dr. J. J. Louis, a prominent resident of the East end of this city, is at the point of death, the result of an assault committed upon him Friday forenoon. It is alleged, by Edward Haley, a yard conductor employed in the P. & L. E. yards. The fight grew out of a dispute over the use of a hallway in the Louis block, in which Haley and his family resided.

The doctor and his assailant had quarreled before Friday's trouble, and the victim of the assault went into the hallway on some other business armed with a poker. Haley seeing this knocked the doctor down stairs, the police claim, and proceeded to use the weapon on the old gentleman.

Louis walked to the police station on Friday and had a warrant issued, and it was not known until Saturday that he was seriously injured. When word was sent to police headquarters that he was unconscious and dying Haley was rearrested and locked in the central station to await future developments in the case.

REVIVAL SERVICES

At the First M. E. Church Successfully Inaugurated Last Evening.

The revival services at the First M. E. church commenced last evening and the outlook for a successful season is encouraging. The services last evening were in charge of Rev. Dr. Clark Crawford. Much interest was shown in the first meeting and when it closed there were a number of persons at the altar. During the day five additions were made to the church roll.

The morning service at this church yesterday was in charge of Dr. J. B. Weakley, of Cincinnati. The revivals will continue as long as the interest lasts. The meetings will be held in the auditorium, a prayer meeting service being held at 7:30 o'clock, while the revival service will commence half an hour later. Tomorrow evening a watch night service will be held which will begin at 8 o'clock.

All the News and All the Ads.

The East Liverpool News Review is sued a great big paper last Friday. It had all the news, and we guess it had all the ads, too. There are a great many larger cities than East Liverpool which do not produce half as good a paper as the News Review.—Youngstown Laborite.

While both motormen tried hard to avoid a collision, Bettridge was injured so badly that he will be unable to resume his work for some time. His car was so constructed that little room was left for a motorman to escape in the event of a collision.

Bettridge, it is said, tried to escape injury, and in jumping back into the car his right foot was caught in some manner just as the two cars came together. The foot was badly crushed and it may be that amputation may be necessary, although the attending physician states this will not be done unless it is absolutely necessary. Bettridge was removed to his home in the West End from the power house in the ambulance.

The front of the line car was smashed completely. The bumper on the north side car is much higher than that on the line car, which permitted the east bound car to crash into the line car with terrific force. The cabin, platform and a part of the roof of the line car was mashed to splinters, and the wonder is that Motorman Humble escaped injury. Some glass in the Calcutta hill car was broken from the force of the collision, and the four passengers in this car were considerably shaken up, but not injured.

The railway company a few weeks ago considered the idea of taking this line car from the road, as it was considered almost useless. The body of the car was for a long time used as a waiting room, being placed at Oakland, near the old East End loop. It was the oldest body used for any purpose whatsoever by the company. Now that it is wrecked a number of barn men are now working on another car which will be used for line purposes. This car has been used in the past as a salt car and in many respects resembles the car used at present for freight purposes. It will be a few days before this car is in readiness to place on the road.

Bettridge, before he became an inspector for this company, was employed as a night barn man by the East Liverpool & Rock Springs Street Railway company.

ADJUDGED INSANE

William E. Moore, of East Liverpool,
Will Be Sent to Massillon Asylum.

Lisbon, December 30.—(Special)—William E. Moore, of East Liverpool, on Saturday was adjudged insane. Application has been made for his admission to the Massillon hospital, and he will probably be taken there this week. He is now in the county jail.

IN PROBATE COURT

An Appraisal of Partnership As-
Reinstated.

Lisbon, December 30.—(Special)—On application of Frank B. Sprowl an appraisal is to be made of the assets of the partnership of McCracken & Sprowl, Salem township. This appraisal is made necessary by the recent death of William McCracken. The appraisers are Norman Brem, Lycurgus Peppel and Benjamin Windle.

On motion of the plaintiff the case of Mary J. Matthews, administrator, against Charles Matthews, has been reinstated. The case had before been withdrawn on motion of the plaintiff, but when the estate was settled it was found that the debts exceeded the amount of property in the hands of the administratrix.

PAST IN THIS CITY.

Present Difficulties Will
Be Overcome.

Because of the fact that the water is being pumped from the river without being filtered many stoppages of water pipes occur by the lodging of pebbles from the mains in the smaller pipes.

Plumbers are unable to meet the demands on their service and have had a good deal of difficulty in locating the places where the pipes are stopped. A plumber said this morning that in most instances the obstruction was found in the street where a tap had been made in the main.

It will be a few weeks before troubles of this kind can be obviated, as water can be admitted to the old basin only when the wing walls are in position to brace the reservoir.

The soft weather has been a blessing to the repairing that is being made at the reservoir, and if there are a few more days like the past week has been Supt. Morley will be able to finish his task in good shape.

However, it will not be advisable to fill the basins too quickly as disastrous consequences might ensue. The water will have to be admitted slowly and the walls be permitted to settle gradually under the weight to be sustained.

Pumping of water direct from the river has done one good thing, and that is to call public attention to the need of a better filter. When the water passes through the old filter it is not perfectly filtered and a modern process like the use of alum is being urged by many individuals.

Physicians declare that much of the recent sickness in the city may be attributed to the use of the city water, but with proper filtration, by which fecal substance could be removed, the water of East Liverpool would be as wholesome as that furnished any city in the country.

Additional laborers were put on the reservoir repair job this morning and a force of men was also set to work on the excavation for the four-inch main that is to be laid in the East End.

HIS OWN ATTORNEY

H. H. C. Hammerton Acted in That
But Lost.

A lively civil suit occupied the attention of Justice J. N. Rose this morning. G. Y. Travis, trustee for Will Reed; J. A. Farrell and Edward Rigby brought suit on a chattel mortgage note held against H. H. C. Hammerton and wife. The note is for $500 and dated January 4, 1901.

The plaintiffs accepted a chattel mortgage as surety, $60 payments to be made each six months.

Mr. Hammerton was his own attorney, and contended that the matter was out of the jurisdiction of the justice's court, that the whole amount should be sued for in the common pleas court instead of the first payment. He also claimed that he had paid Mr. Reed $500, which was denied by Mr. Reed.

ADDRESS BY T. J. DUFFY

bly Hall.

The principal address at the dedication of the new Trades Assembly hall at Massillon yesterday was made by T. J. Duffy, of this city, national secretary of the Brotherhood. Mr. Duffy's talk was an eloquent and forceful one. The Massillon Central Trades organization is a strong body and wields a strong influence in the community.

Mr. Duffy left Massillon last evening for Wheeling, where he will visit friends for a few days.

PLAN OF CONSOLIDATION

Is Quite Likely to Meet With Opposi-
Against Merging With Carnegie.

A joint meeting of the board of directors of the public library and that of the Carnegie institution has been called for this evening.

The meeting will be held in the office of Attorney J. H. Brookes, and it is expected that a good representation will be present from both bodies.

Now that the Carnegie library has reached a point in the perfection of its affairs that the directors can take up the task of equipping the institution they have thought it wise to consult with the board in control of the present library. The meeting tonight has been called for the purpose of talking matters over with a view to consideration.

From what could be gathered in talking with a number of men who have been active in their support of the old institution, it appears that the Carnegie directors have a difficult task on their hands.

It is said that the consolidation will be resisted by many of the labor people. The claim is made that the men and women who took an active part in establishing the library and through whose efforts the concern has been maintained for several years have nothing in common with Carnegie or the institutions he founds.

STRUCK WITH A POKER

Hurt.

Youngstown, December 30.—Dr. J. J. Louis, a prominent resident of the East end of this city, is at the point of death, the result of an assault committed upon him Friday forenoon. It is alleged, by Edward Haley, a yard conductor employed in the P. & L. E. yards. The fight grew out of a dispute over the use of a hallway in the Louis block, in which Haley and his family resided.

The doctor and his assailant had quarreled before Friday's trouble and the victim of the assault went into the hallway on some other business armed with a poker. Haley seeing this knocked the doctor down stairs, the police claim, and proceeded to use the weapon on the old gentleman.

Louis walked to the police station on Friday and had a warrant issued, and it was not known until Saturday that he was seriously injured. When word was sent to police headquarters that he was unconscious and dying Haley was rearrested and locked in the central station to await future developments in the case.

Evening.

The revival services at the First M. E. church commenced last evening and the outlook for a successful season is encouraging. The services last evening were in charge of Rev. Dr. Clark Crawford. Much interest was shown in the first meeting and when it closed there were a number of persons at the altar. During the day five additions were made to the church roll.

The morning service at this church yesterday was in charge of Dr. J. B. Weakley, of Cincinnati. The revivals will continue as long as the interest lasts. The meetings will be held in the auditorium, a prayer meeting service being held at 7:30 o'clock, while the revival service will commence half an hour later. Tomorrow evening a watch night service will be held which will begin at 8 o'clock.

All the News and All the Ads.

The East Liverpool News Review is sued a great big paper last Friday. It had all the news, and we guess it had all the ads, too. There are a great many larger cities than East Liverpool which do not produce half as good a paper as the News Review.—Youngstown Laborite.

There will be another league service at this church this evening, and a watch night service will be held tomorrow evening. During the early part of the evening the Junior and Senior leagues will have charge of the service, but the latter part of the service will be devoted to the regular congregation.

Two additions were made to the church yesterday and one conversion is reported.

WIPING OUT THE DEBT

Committee of the Second U. P. Church to Start Campaign at Once.

Soon after the holidays the committee, composed of Mrs. Charles Warner, William Kinney and F. D. White, appointed by Martin Elliott, chairman of the Second U. P. church, will commence to solicit funds to pay off the debt of the church, which at present amounts to about $1,600.

This amount is due a building and loan association, but as the several societies of the church have succeeded in raising several hundred dollars within the past few months, the amount to be secured by the new committee will not amount to more than probably $1,200 or $1,300.

It is announced the committee has hopes of paying off this debt within the next year.

Lack of Coal Delays Work.

The East End plant of the American sewer pipe works is still idle, although it was the belief that the works would be placed in operation this morning. The scarcity of coal is keeping this plant idle and there is no way of telling when a sufficient supply will be received. Fires were started in the boilers this morning, but as there is only one car of coal at the works, the fires cannot be kept going unless an additional amount is received by tomorrow.

No. 52 a Strong Local.

Local No. 52, street railway employees, held its last meeting of the old year in its rooms on Mulberry street Saturday evening, at which time new officers for the new term of six months were installed. Several withdrawal cards were granted and two new members were initiated. This local is now one of the strongest in the city, having an enrollment of 74 members.

New Officers Next Sunday.

The new officers elected by the scholars of the Sunday school of the Second Presbyterian church several weeks ago will take their offices next Sunday morning. James S. Noah has been elected superintendent of this school for the new year. At this church yesterday one new member was received, while last Sunday three members were received.

Placing the New Boiler.

It was announced this morning that the work of placing the new boiler at the power house of the East Liverpool Railway company would be completed during the latter part of January. A large force of men are at work getting the boiler in position, and all possible haste is being made with the work.

In a Critical Condition.

Annie Cochran, who has been ill at the home of William Irwin, on First avenue, for some time, is said to be in a critical condition. It is said the young lady has been so ill that she has been unable to eat any solid food for 56 days ending last night. Her food is being taken in a medicinal form.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

John Poff and daughter, of Pittsburgh, are visiting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. N. M. Crowe, of Pennsylvania avenue.

The clay diggers working in the mine of the American Sewer Pipe company in the East End, resumed work this morning.

William DeBee and Miss Nellie Cosgrave, of East Palestine, are visiting at the home of Mr. DeBee's parents on First avenue.

The Sr. O. U. A. M. of the East End, at a meeting to be held Thursday evening, will elect officers for the new term of six months and one year.

The annual congregational meeting of the Second Presbyterian church, which in past years has been held in January, has been deferred until the first Wednesday in April.

It has been announced that a series of revival meetings will be held in the Second M. E. church in February. Arrangements for this event are being made by Rev. G. W. Orcutt.

L. W. Healy, secretary of the East Liverpool Railway company, who has been spending the holidays at Scranton visiting relatives, is expected to return to the city tomorrow.

$50,000 IN JEWELRY STOLEN.

A Valet Robbed New York Couple. Butler Under Police Surveillance.

New York, Dec. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Thebaud, of Madison avenue, were robbed Sunday of jewelry worth $50,000.

The robbery is said by the police, and also by Mr. Thebaud to have been the work of a newly engaged valet who had been employed by Mr. Thebaud but two weeks. The valet is missing, and the butler, who recommended him, is under constant police surveillance.

Mr. and Mrs. Thebaud went to White Plains Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Willets. They were to spend Sunday with the Willets family. The valet accompanied them. Sunday morning the Willets, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thebaud and several other guests went to church. Soon after the return Mrs. Thebaud discovered that her diamond and pearl were gone, but found that little else had been taken. Mr. Thebaud at once communicated by telephone with the housekeeper of the residence in this city, and it was discovered that the other valuables had been stolen.

The valet was last seen about 9 o'clock Sunday morning when he took one of Howard Willets' rigs and drove to the railroad station in White Plains. Three hours later the rig was found at the station, abandoned. It is supposed that the valet, whose name is Kern, left town on an outgoing train soon after he drove to the station. The New York police late Sunday night communicated with the police of the principal cities where Kern would be apt to go.

CONFESSED TO A MURDER.

Bruce Said He and Van Wormer Boys Killed Hallenbeck.

Hudson, N. Y., Dec. 30.—One of the most sensational murder cases ever known in New York State culminated Saturday in a confession by Harvey Bruce, aged 21, in the form of a statement to his mother and aunt. The statement is witnessed by Mayor Charles S. Harvey and County Treasurer George H. May, and tells how the murder of Peter A. Hallenbeck, a wealthy farmer of Greenport, was committed on Christmas eve by Bruce and Willis, Burton and Fred Van Wormer, brothers, aged 20, 23 and 26, nephews of the murdered man.

The full purport of the confession will not be made public until today at the coroner's inquest, but enough has been told to show that the prisoners, who all lived in Kinderhook, 18 miles from the Hallenbeck home, drove to the scene of the crime, tied their horse at Hallenbeck's barn, went to the rear of the house in the moonlight, rapped on the door, and when the old man opened it, shot him to death, firing 13 shots, 11 of which penetrated the body.

The crime was witnessed by Hallenbeck's wife, and old mother, the other members of the family being at Christmas eve services, less than a mile distant.

Until last fall the Van Wormer family lived in a house in Greenport, mortgaged to Hallenbeck. Because he thought the boys troublesome, Hallenbeck foreclosed the mortgage and the family was evicted. This was the basis of the ill will held against Hallenbeck.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Azusa Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

IMPORTED TO PALACE

HOW MRS. JACK GARDNER HAS STARTLED BOSTON SOCIETY.

Now She Is to Open Her Venetian Made Residence With a Grand Housewarming Party—Another Boston Woman Strives to Outdo Her.

That Mrs. Jack Gardner of Boston never does things by halves in a social way has been shown time after time, and society is on the tip-toe of expectancy for the new surprise she has in store for it. Some time ago Mrs. Gardner decided there was nothing quaint or novel enough for her in American architecture, and so she went abroad and purchased a Venetian palace. This was brought to America and rebuilt on spacious grounds in the Hub and will be thrown open to her friends on Jan. 6. Her enterprise has been kept as secret as possible, and it is only recently that a description of the palace was secured.

It was about a year ago that Mrs. Gardner decided upon the building of her Italian gardens. She found a palace in Venice which was for sale, with furnishings from the roof down. She bought it, had it dismantled and each separate piece packed for shipment to Boston. There, in Back Bay Fens, she had old world artisans put every stone and plaster into place again.

One of the two main entrances to the palace is near Huntington avenue, and this leads into a narrow corridor, from which opens a long and spacious music hall. At the farther end of this hall is a stage, which is said to be large enough to seat the entire Symphony orchestra. On either side of the second entrance are reception rooms, and beyond them is a corridor with arches of red brick and a red tiled floor. Beyond this arched passage is the courtyard, which occupies the center of the palace. It is 50 by 75 feet in dimensions and is covered with a roof of glass. Around it on the lower floor is an arcade, with beautiful Corinthian columns of white marble, and opening on its four sides are large square windows on the three upper stories.

room which will be used as a picture gallery. There is also on this floor a Dutch room, with an old fashioned fireplace and a ceiling of black oak and with its beams so arranged as to form fifteen square panels. Set in these panels are paintings by the old Flemish masters. A companion room to the picture gallery is on the third floor, and here will be kept Mrs. Gardner's great collection of rare old books. Near here is a Gothic room, with one large rose window and others, smaller, of stained glass. This room is fitted up with carved settles and a space left for an altar and will no doubt be used as a chapel.

Mrs. Gardner's apartments are in the upper story of the palace. Her suit extends across the front of the building and consists of a boudoir, sleeping and bath rooms. The walls of the boudoir are hung with red tapestry, the bathroom is tiled in white, and four inscriptions in Latin are on the walls. In the sleeping room is a carved marble fireplace, which was formerly in Mrs. Gardner's Beacon street home. The servants' quarters are also in the upper story and are comfortable and spacious, and there is no lack of closets and pantries. Across the rear of the building extends a large dining hall.

The palace contains all the modern improvements and conveniences, but these have been so concealed as to in no way mar the beauty of the architecture or to seem incongruous with the Venice of the middle ages. The building will be lighted by electricity and heated by hot air coming through openings in the walls. All the larger rooms have fireplaces, with hoods of various designs. The ballroom in the palace is said to be the largest private room of its kind in that city.

Mrs. Gardner's Venetian palace will not be the only one in Boston, however. Her social rival, Mrs. Charles F. Sprague, the wife of a former representative in congress, now in an asylum, is preparing to outdo her in the mad of importing them. She has bought an older and much larger Venetian palace, and it is now being razed and the parts prepared for shipment. The materials will be sent to Boston and used in transforming Mrs. Sprague's country home at Brookline into an Italian palace that will, so Mrs. Sprague's set declares, far surpass Mrs. Gardner's.

TOO LITTLE ELEPHANT.

Couldn't Meet the Expectations Aroused by a Good Deal of Talk.

"It is my business, of course," said the advance agent, "to work up as much interest as possible in the circus before it arrives, and one of my strong points is the animals belonging to the museum part of the show. Anything about a savage tiger, a roaring lion or a mad elephant makes the farmer itch for a closer sight, and as a general thing you can't pile it on too strong. I overdid matters once, however. We had only one elephant with us that season, and he was undersized and nothing to brag of, but at a certain town in Indiana I wrote a column article about him and made him out the most dangerous thing on legs. According to my story, he had killed a dozen people, smashed up the circus three or four times and devastated a large area of farming country, and I certainly worked up a great interest.

"Is this the critter that has killed a dozen men?"

"It is," was the reply, "and you'd better keep a safe distance."

"He smashes up circuses and devastates farms, does he?"

"He does, and I think he's getting ready to break loose now. Just notice the twitch of his ears. If he does break loose, there'll be fifty people killed."

"Then I'll stop him right now," replied the young fellow, and he jumped in and hit the Rajah a sockdolager on the ear that knocked him as flat as a pancake. They heard that blow clear out to the ticket wagon, and it took six men and a two dollar bill to work that farmer outdoors without getting up a riot. As for the elephant, he lay there as if dead for a good half hour, and it was a week before he got over the headache and got his appetite back. The papers gave me the grand guy about it, and I had to drop him out of my ads, and claim that our Bengal tiger was the only real man eater ever exhibited in a state of captivity."

$50,000 IN JEWELRY STOLEN.

A Valet Robbed New York Couple. Butler Under Police Surveillance.

New York, Dec. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Thebaud, of Madison avenue, were robbed Sunday of jewelry worth $50,000.

The robbery is said by the police, and also by Mr. Thebaud to have been the work of a newly engaged valet who had been employed by Mr. Thebaud but two weeks. The valet is missing, and the butler, who recommended him, is under constant police surveillance.

Mr. and Mrs. Thebaud went to White Plains Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Willets. They were to spend Sunday with the Willets family. The valet accompanied them. Sunday morning the Willets, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thebaud and several other guests went to church. Soon after the return Mrs. Thebaud discovered that her diamond and pearl were gone, but found that little else had been taken. Mr. Thebaud at once communicated by telephone with the housekeeper of the residence in this city, and it was discovered that the other valuables had been stolen.

The valet was last seen about 9 o'clock Sunday morning when he took one of Howard Willets' rigs and drove to the railroad station in White Plains. Three hours later the rig was found at the station, abandoned. It is supposed that the valet, whose name is Kern, left town on an outgoing train soon after he drove to the station. The New York police late Sunday night communicated with the police of the principal cities where Kern would be apt to go.

CONFESSED TO A MURDER.

Bruce Said He and Van Wormer Boys Killed Hallenbeck.

Hudson, N. Y., Dec. 30.—One of the most sensational murder cases ever known in New York State culminated Saturday in a confession by Harvey Bruce, aged 21, in the form of a statement to his mother and aunt. The statement is witnessed by Mayor Charles S. Harvey and County Treasurer George H. Macy, and tells how the murder of Peter A. Hallenbeck, a wealthy farmer of Greenport, was committed on Christmas eve by Bruce and Willis, Burton and Fred Van Wormer, brothers, aged 20, 23 and 26, nephews of the murdered man.

The full purport of the confession will not be made public until today at the coroner's inquest, but enough has been told to show that the prisoners, who all lived in Kinderhook, 18 miles from the Hallenbeck home, drove to the scene of the crime, tied their horse at Hallenbeck's barn, went to the rear of the house in the moonlight, rapped on the door, and when the old man opened it, shot him to death, firing 13 shots, 11 of which penetrated the body.

The crime was witnessed by Hallenbeck's wife, and old mother, the other members of the family being at Christmas eve services, less than a mile distant.

Until last fall the Van Wormer family lived in a house in Greenport, mortgaged to Hallenbeck. Because he thought the boys troublesome, Hallenbeck foreclosed the mortgage and the family was evicted. This was the basis of the ill will held against Hallenbeck.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Azaxto Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

IMPORTED TO PALACE

Now She Is to Open Her Venetian Made Residence With a Grand Housewarming Party—Another Boston Woman Strives to Outdo Her.

That Mrs. Jack Gardner of Boston never does things by halves in a social way has been shown time after time, and society is on the tip of its tongue for the new surprise she has in store for it. Some time ago Mrs. Gardner decided there was nothing quaint or novel enough for her in American architecture, and so she went abroad and purchased a Venetian palace. This was brought to America and rebuilt on spacious grounds in the Hub and will be thrown open to her friends on Jan. 6. Her enterprise has been kept as secret as possible, and it is only recently that a description of the palace was secured.

It was about a year ago that Mrs. Gardner decided upon the building of her Italian gardens. She found a palace in Venice which was for sale, with furnishings from the roof down. She bought it, had it dismantled and each separate piece packed for shipment to Boston. There, in Back Bay Fens, she had old world artisans put every stone and pillar into place again.

One of the two main entrances to the palace is near Huntington avenue, and this leads into a narrow corridor, from which opens a long and spacious music hall. At the farther end of this hall is a stage, which is said to be large enough to seat the entire Symphony orchestra. On either side of the second entrance are reception rooms, and beyond them is a corridor with arches of red brick and a red tiled floor. Beyond this arched passage is the courtyard, which occupies the center of the palace. It is 50 by 75 feet in dimensions and is covered with a roof of glass. Around it on the lower floor is an arcade, with beautiful Corinthian columns of white marble, and opening on its four sides are large square windows on the three upper stories.

room which will be used as a picture gallery. There is also on this floor a Dutch room, with an old fashioned fireplace and a ceiling of black oak and with its beams so arranged as to form fifteen square panels. Set in these panels are paintings by the old Flemish masters. A companion room to the picture gallery is on the third floor, and here will be kept Mrs. Gardner's great collection of rare old books. Near here is a Gothic room, with one large rose window and others, smaller, of stained glass. This room is fitted up with carved settles and a space left for an altar and will no doubt be used as a chapel.

Mrs. Gardner's apartments are in the upper story of the palace. Her suit extends across the front of the building and consists of a boudoir, sleeping and bath rooms. The walls of the boudoir are hung with red tapestry, the bathroom is tiled in white, and four inscriptions in Latin are on the walls. In the sleeping room is a carved marble fireplace, which was formerly in Mrs. Gardner's Beacon street home. The servants' quarters are also in the upper story and are comfortable and spacious, and there is no lack of closets and pantries. Across the rear of the building extends a large dining hall.

The palace contains all the modern improvements and conveniences, but these have been so concealed as to in no way mar the beauty of the architecture or to seem incongruous with the Venice of the middle ages. The building will be lighted by electricity and heated by hot air coming through openings in the walls. All the larger rooms have fireplaces, with hoods of various designs. The ballroom in the palace is said to be the largest private room of its kind in that city.

Mrs. Gardner's Venetian palace will not be the only one in Boston, however. Her social rival, Mrs. Charles F. Sprague, the wife of a former representative in congress, now in an asylum, is preparing to outdo her in the art of importing them. She has bought an older and much larger Venetian palace, and it is now being razed and the parts prepared for shipment. The materials will be sent to Boston and used in transforming Mrs. Sprague's country home at Brookline into an Italian palace that will, so Mrs. Sprague's set declares, far surpass Mrs. Gardner's.

TOO LITTLE ELEPHANT.

Couldn't Meet the Expectations Aroused by a Good Deal of Talk.

"It is my business, of course," said the advance agent, "to work up as much interest as possible in the circus before it arrives, and one of my strong points is the animals belonging to the museum part of the show. Anything about a savage tiger, a roaring lion or a mad elephant makes the farmer itch for a closer sight, and as a general thing you can't pile it on too strong. I overdid matters once, however. We had only one elephant with us that season, and he was undersized and nothing to brag of, but at a certain town in Indiana I wrote a column a mile about him and made him out the most dangerous thing on legs. According to my story, he had killed a dozen people, smashed up the circus three or four times and devastated a large area of farming country, and I certainly worked up a great interest.

"Among those who showed up on circus day," continued the agent, "was a gaunt, rawboned young farmer with a fist like a half bushel measure. He had business in his eye, but no one noticed it until too late. He entered the animal tent with hundreds of others and made for the elephant at once. The old fellow was chained by the leg to a stake and munching away at a pile of hay, and the countryman squared off and gave him a good looking over. Then he asked of a keeper:

"Is this the critter that has killed a dozen men?"

"It is," was the reply, "and you'd better keep a safe distance."

"He does, and I think he's getting ready to break loose now. Just notice the twitch of his ears. If he does break loose, there'll be fifty people killed."

"Then I'll stop him right now," replied the young fellow, and he jumped in and hit the Rajah a sockdologer on the ear that knocked him as flat as a pancake. They heard that blow clear out to the ticket wagon, and it took six men and a two dollar bill to work that farmer outdoors without getting up a riot. As for the elephant, he lay there as if dead for a good half hour, and it was a week before he got over the headache and got his appetite back. The papers gave me the grand guy about it, and I had to drop him out of my ads, and claim that our Bengal tiger was the only real man eater ever exhibited in a state of captivity."—Detroit Free Press.

BOUNDARY DISPUTES

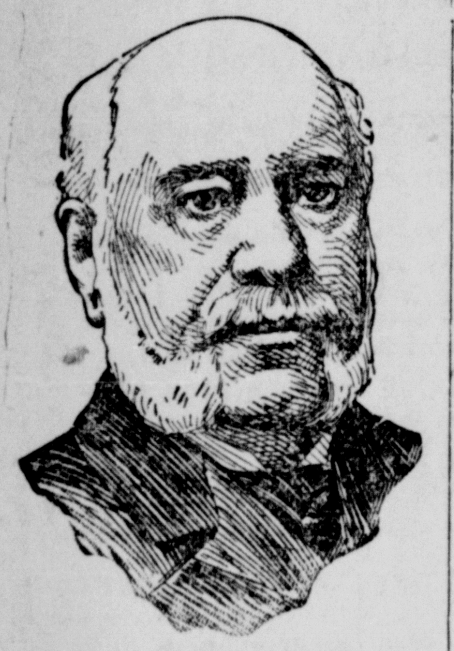

And Other Issues With Great Britain May Soon Be Taken Up.

DESIRED BY PAUNCEFOTE.

Desires to Have All Questions Between Great Britain and the United States Settled Before His Term as Ambassador Comes to a Close.

Washington, Dec. 30.—It is expected that efforts will be renewed before long for the settlement of the numerous controversies which have long existed between the United States and Great Britain, growing out of relations along the Canadian border, the Atlantic fisheries, warships on the great lakes, the Alaskan boundary and other questions.

The British authorities have expected for some time that when the Isthmian canal treaty was once disposed of there would be a renewal of efforts to adjust the Alaskan boundary and other pending questions, the canal treaty being regarded as one of many pending issues. Now the

LORD JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE.

British government has yielded the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and other points in the Isthmian negotiation it desires to take up some of the other questions in which they have important interests involved. Lord Pauncefoot desires to clear up all pending differences and have "a clean slate" before his present term as ambassador comes to a close. When he came to Washington there were four great issues between the two Governments. The first of these was the Bering sea controversy, which had reached an acute state. Diplomacy disposed of this issue. The second issue was over Venezuela, which like the seal question at one time threatened war. But the efforts of diplomacy were again successful in averting trouble and bringing about a settlement. The third important issue was on the Isthmian canal, which has been satisfactorily disposed of by the recent Hay-Pauncefoot treaty. This leaves only one issue remaining in order to bring about a "clean slate," namely, the border controversy, both as to Canada and Alaska. The British officials usually link these various boundary controversies together, as they are more or less connected. At present a modus vivendi exists as to the Alaskan boundary, chiefly for the purpose of avoiding a clash along the border and holding each side in check until a final boundary is determined upon. It seems to be conceded on both sides that the modus can not be carried on indefinitely, and that sooner or later the main question of establishing a permanent boundary must be settled. Lord Lansdowne's desires to take up the question was expressed clearly in his note to Secretary Hay last spring, when the British government declined to accept the Senate amendment to the Hay-Pauncefoot treaty. Recently Lord Lansdowne again has expressed in speeches the need of taking up the Alaskan boundary question. These declarations by the head of the British foreign service, together with the well-known wish of Lord Pauncefoot to clear away all pending differences between the two Governments, doubtless will lead to the formal exchanges necessary to an adjustment. Just what steps will be adopted are not disclosed, but it seems likely that direct negotiations and the subsequent assembling of a commission will com-

Young Men In Public Life

By A. R. SERVEN, Chief Examiner of the Civil Service Commission

HIS IS THE AGE OF THE YOUNG MAN IN GOVERNMENT—OF GOVERNMENT BY YOUNG MEN.

The frequency with which gray haired old men are turning over the reins of government to the youngsters in the twenties, thirties and forties is amazing. We now have the youngest of our presidents in the White House, some mere boys in congress, unbearded youths entering the insular service, well nigh at the top of the ladder. It is so in nearly every executive department as well.

THE BOYS DESTINED TO BECOME PUBLIC MEN ARE THOSE WHO ARE EDUCATING THEMSELVES. THE GREAT MAJORITY ARE GOING TO REACH PUBLIC OFFICE BY WAY OF THE COLLEGE. The other day I was looking at some statistics of what are supposed to be the people of attainment in America, and I found that NEARLY FOUR-FIFTHS ARE PERSONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION.

In these days of higher and more complicated development of civilization the man or woman with systematic mental training and who enjoys average health has four chances out of every five. Secretaryships are perhaps the best apprenticeships for those ambitious to become statesmen and public men. The secretaries to senators, representatives, cabinet officers and bureau chiefs are in elbow touch with the most influential men of the nation every day. If endowed with diplomacy and courteous ways and if wise enough to equip themselves with law as well as stenography, their chances are the very best.

Disputes Long Have Existed.

The border issues outside of that relating to Alaska are those which long have existed, and have created more or less friction. The joint commission which assembled some time ago practically disposed of these lesser issues, but the deadlock on Alaska prevented a treaty covering these and other points of agreement. With the disposal of the Alaska boundary, therefore, it is felt that the way would be clear to dispose of the other controversies. The reciprocity question, which is among those formerly considered, is not likely to be taken up in this connection, as Canada desires to make it the subject of separate negotiation. The Atlantic fisheries question also may be the subject of separate negotiations.

CEBU BELIEVED PACIFIED.

130 Rebels Surrendered—Chaffee Thinks Prospects For Suppressing Rebellion Promising.

Manila, Dec. 30.—Gen. Chaffee and Acting Gov. Wright deny alleged friction between the civil and military authorities.

Gen. Chaffee further along said that the prospect of subduing the insurrection in an places was promising.

Referring to the work accomplished by the United States Philippine commission during the last year, Gov. Wright said:

"Out of darkness has come light and immense and wondrous strides have taken place. A year ago everything outside of Manila was practically chaos; now, outside of the few provinces where the insurrection still exists everything is in a most flourishing condition. In the 300 miles from Manila north to Aparri, not a hostile shot has been fired in many months, while houses have been built and are still building, and crops have been planted.

Gov. Wright said he was satisfied that the majority of the Filipinos recognize and appreciate what has been done, and that their leaders were doing all in their power to bring the remaining insurgents to a peaceful view of the situation.

Concluding Gov. Wright said the natives inhabiting the island of Samar had during all their history been an unmanageable race, and he was not surprised at their present hostility.

Maj. Henry Allen, formerly governor of the island of Leyte, and who was chosen chief of the insular constabulary, has left Manila for a tour of inspection through the islands of Leyte and Mindoro. He will report to the commission on the conditions existing between there, and particularly on the situation in the province of Misamis, Mindoro, which the military authorities have asked to have returned from the civil back to their own control.

Five insurgent officers and 175 men, with 6 cannon, 51 rifles and 17 shotguns, surrendered Saturday to the American authorities on the island of Cebu. It is now believed this island is pacified.

CHINESE MORE PROGRESSIVE.

Leading Officials Dine With Congenial Ladies Present.

Pekin, Dec. 30.—Considerable sensation has been caused in Chinese official circles by a dinner given at his residence by United States Minister Conger, and which was attended by the leading officials of the Chinese foreign office. Among the officials present were Ma Tung, a former "Boxer" leader, and Wang Wen Shao, one of the Chinese plenipotentiaries. The dinner was attended by several American ladies.

It was formerly the custom for prominent Chinese officials never to enter a foreign legation except upon the most formal occasion while the meeting of foreign ladies socially would have been considered as degrading as would the associating with Chinese women upon the same footing.

This event is significant of the progressive tendency of to-day, which has recently been manifested in many ways.

FLED TOWARD MOUNTAINS.

A Rebel Leader in Venezuela Routed Different Times.

Caracas, Venezuela (via Haytian cable), Dec. 30.—General Luciano Mendoza, president-elect of the state of

Carabobo, who rebelled against President Castro, marched on La Victoria and was said to have been defeated, and who was later reported to have escaped to the neighborhood of San Juan de los Moros, is now said to have reached Villa de Cura in the state of Miranda, where he was routed by the Government troops.

In company with a small number of followers he escaped and reached La Puerta, where he was again overtaken and again defeated. Accompanied by only 40 men General Mendoza passed Ortiz in the state of Guarico, December 24. He was proceeding in the direction of mountains considered to be almost inaccessible.

RAILWAY MEN TO FEDERATE.

Lehigh Valley Men Hope to Thus Get Grievances Adjusted.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Dec. 30.—The employees of the Wyoming division of the Lehigh Valley railway have started a movement for the Federation of the brotherhoods of engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, switchmen and telegraphers, which they expect to extend along the entire line from New York to Buffalo. A joint meeting of delegates from all the brotherhoods was held at Pittston Sunday afternoon, and the men were in session for two hours.

Representatives of each brotherhood favored the movement, believing that with the aid of the others the grievances of all could be readily adjusted. After a general discussion a committee comprised of members of each class of workmen was appointed to arrange the preliminaries for the Federation, and another meeting will be held in a short time.

A number of grievances were discussed at the meeting, but no action was taken.

NETHERLANDS CAN'T DECIDE.

No Recent Developments of Importance as to Danish West Indies.

Washington, Dec. 30.—There have been no recent developments of importance in the matter of the proposed sale of the Danish West Indies to this Government, negotiations for which at various times have been carried on between the United States and the Netherlands. The United States has defined its position very clearly as to the terms under which it will purchase the islands, but apparently through the inability of the Netherlands Government to reach a determination to close the deal, the negotiations so far have failed of conclusion.

If any request looking to an arrangement for a plebiscite is in contemplation by the Copenhagen Government, its wishes in this respect have not yet been communicated to the State Department.

Kinsey, pioneer residents of Kosciusko county, Ind., now living here, completed the last day of the sixty-eighth year of their married life Sunday, and celebrated their sixtieth anniversary. Mr. Kinsey is 93 years old, and his wife is 87. Both are in excellent health. They were married in Knox county, O., December 25, 1833, and were natives of Delaware and Maryland, respectively. They are the parents of 10 children, all living, except one, the eldest of whom is nearly 70 years old.

ROBBED OF $6,000.

Thieves Over-Awed Ladies by Throwing Water on One.

Washington, Ga., Dec. 30.—The Misses Battle, two elderly maiden ladies living at Barnett junction on the Washington branch of the Georgia railroad, were robbed of $6,000 in gold. When the robbers entered the house the women, hearing a noise, investigated, lighting a lamp. The robbers dashed a bucket of water on the one holding the lamp and overpowered them. The women lived alone in the house.

Several previous attempts have been made to rob them during the last few months. The ladies believe the robbers were white men, having recognized one of them, they say.

SEEN DRAGGING GIRL

Across the Road, In Front of His Home, Was Young Wilcox.

FUNERAL OF MISS CROPSEY.

Large Crowd at Service and Many Showed Her Respect—Member of Committee Said There Was Sufficient Evidence to Convict Wilcox.

Elizabeth City, N. C., Dec. 30.—Funeral services over the body of Miss Nellie Cropsey, whose remains were discovered in the Pasquotank river after a search lasting several weeks, were held in the Methodist church here Sunday. The church was crowded to suffocation, and the street leading to it was lined with people who uncovered as the hearse drove past. The Rev. R. R. Tuttle conducted the services, assisted by the Revs. C. W. Duke and J. B. Forbes, of the Baptist church. At the conclusion of the services the body was placed in the Sunday school room and later will be taken by Andrew G. Cropsey, uncle of the girl, to Brooklyn, for interment. The citizens' committee investigating the affair acted as pallbearers. The jail in which is young Wilcox, who was arrested for alleged participation in the girl's death, lies only a stone's throw from the church. Wilcox knew the funeral was in progress, but showed no emotion, and merely inquired if a large crowd was present. He was more nervous than Saturday, but retained much of the easy manner that has characterized him at all times. The guards were withdrawn from the jail Sunday, and permitted to go home. Public sentiment is strong against Wilcox, but there is less talk of lynching, and some of the ministers Sunday took occasion in their sermons to advise against mob violence. Wilcox absolutely refuses under advice of his attorney, to say anything regarding the case. He asserts that the first statement made by him covers all he knows of the case. He is charged with the murder of the girl, and as the offense is not bailable in this State, he will have to stay in jail pending a trial. It is believed he will waive an examination and permit his case to go direct to the grand jury next March.

A Minister's Advice.

The Rev. L. L. Williams, rector of the Episcopal church, during his morning sermon, referred to the Cropsey case, and said the people should not act hastily in condemning Wilcox. He advised his hearers not to commit any overt act, but to allow the law to take its course.

K. W. Turner, a member of the citizens' committee, asserted Sunday that they would have sufficient evidence to connect Wilcox with the crime. He said:

"We know Miss Cropsey was killed by a blow on the head with a sand-bag or blackjack. If the blow was struck while she was on the porch then her unconscious form was dragged across the lawn to the river, only a short distance away. If the blow was struck on the lawn we are convinced she was induced to cross the lawn by Wilcox, and that while walking across she was struck by him. There is another witness who may be called upon to testify. It is R. F. Parker, who told his wife that night after Miss Cropsey disappeared that he had seen Wilcox dragging a girl across the road in front of the Wilcox residence. We will investigate that."

BOUNDARY DISPUTES

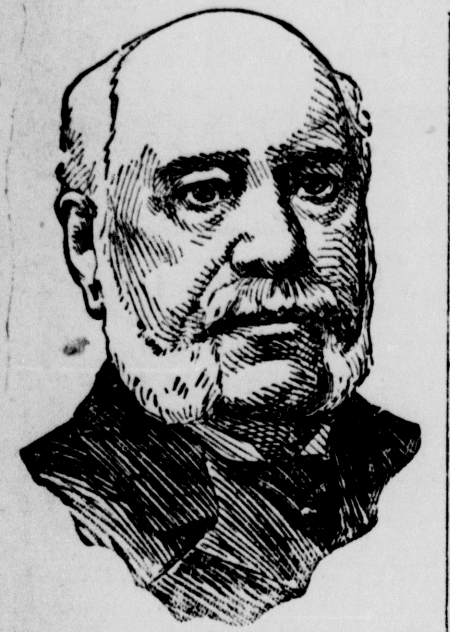

And Other Issues With Great Britain May Soon Be Taken Up.

DESIRED BY PAUNCEFOTE.

Desires to Have All Questions Between Great Britain and the United States Settled Before His Term as Ambassador Comes to a Close.

Washington, Dec. 30.—It is expected that efforts will be renewed before long for the settlement of the numerous controversies which have long existed between the United States and Great Britain, growing out of relations along the Canadian border, the Atlantic fisheries, warships on the great lakes, the Alaskan boundary and other questions.

The British authorities have expected for some time that when the Isthmian canal treaty was once disposed of there would be a renewal of efforts to adjust the Alaskan boundary and other pending questions, the canal treaty being regarded as one of many pending issues. Now the

LORD JULIAN PAUNCEFOOT.

British government has yielded the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and other points in the Isthmian negotiation it desires to take up some of the other questions in which they have important interests involved. Lord Pauncefoot desires to clear up all pending differences and have "a clean slate" before his present term as ambassador comes to a close. When he came to Washington there were four great issues between the two governments. The first of these was the Bering sea controversy, which had reached an acute state. Diplomacy disposed of this issue. The second issue was over Venezuela, which, like the seal question at one time threatened war. But the efforts of diplomacy were again successful in averting trouble and bringing about a settlement. The third important issue was on the Isthmian canal, which has been satisfactorily disposed of by the recent Hay-Pauncefoot treaty. This leaves only one issue remaining in order to bring about a "clean slate," namely, the border controversy, both as to Canada and Alaska. The British officials usually link these various boundary controversies together, as they are more or less connected. At present a modus vivendi exists as to the Alaskan boundary, chiefly for the purpose of avoiding a clash along the border and holding each side in check until a final boundary is determined upon. It seems to be conceded on both sides that the modus can not be carried on indefinitely, and that sooner or later the main question of establishing a permanent boundary must be settled. Lord Lansdowne desires to take up the question was expressed clearly in his note to Secretary Hay last spring, when the British government declined to accept the Senate amendment to the first Hay-Pauncefoot treaty. Recently Lord Lansdowne again has expressed in speeches the need of taking up the Alaskan boundary question. These declarations by the head of the British foreign service, together with the well-known wish of Lord Pauncefoot to clear away all pending differences between the two governments, doubtless will lead to the formal exchanges necessary to an adjustment. Just what steps will be adopted are not disclosed, but it seems likely that direct negotiations and the subsequent assembling of a commission will com-

Young Men In Public Life

By A. R. SERVEN, Chief Examiner of the Civil Service Commission

HIS IS THE AGE OF THE YOUNG MAN IN GOVERNMENT—OF GOVERNMENT BY YOUNG MEN.

The frequency with which gray haired old men are turning over the reins of government to the youngsters in the twenties, thirties and forties is amazing. We now have the youngest of our presidents in the White House, some mere boys in congress, unbearded youths entering the insular service, well nigh at the top of the ladder. It is so in nearly every executive department as well.

THE BOYS DESTINED TO BECOME PUBLIC MEN ARE THOSE WHO ARE EDUCATING THEMSELVES. THE GREAT MAJORITY ARE GOING TO REACH PUBLIC OFFICE BY WAY OF THE COLLEGE. The other day I was looking at some statistics of what are supposed to be the people of attainment in America, and I found that NEARLY FOUR-FIFTHS ARE PERSONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION.

In these days of higher and more complicated development of civilization the man or woman with systematic mental training and who enjoys average health has four chances out of every five. Secretaryships are perhaps the best apprenticeships for those ambitious to become statesmen and public men. The secretaries to senators, representatives, cabinet officers and bureau chiefs are in elbow touch with the most influential men of the nation every day. If endowed with diplomacy and courteous ways and if wise enough to equip themselves with law as well as stenography, their chances are the very best.

Disputes Long Have Existed.

The border issues outside of that relating to Alaska are those which long have existed, and have created more or less friction. The joint commission which assembled some time ago practically disposed of these lesser issues, but the deadlock on Alaska prevented a treaty covering these and other points of agreement. With the disposal of the Alaskan boundary, therefore, it is felt that the way would be clear to dispose of the other controversies. The reciprocity question, which is among those formerly considered, is not likely to be taken up in this connection, as Canada desires to make it the subject of separate negotiation. The Atlantic fisheries question also may be the subject of separate negotiations.

CEBU BELIEVED PACIFIED.

130 Rebels Surrendered—Chaffee Thinks Prospects For Suppressing Rebellion Promising.

Manila, Dec. 30.—Gen. Chaffee and Acting Gov. Wright deny alleged friction between the civil and military authorities.

Gen. Chaffee further along said that the prospect of subduing the insurrection in all places was promising.

Referring to the work accomplished by the United States Philippine commission during the last year, Gov. Wright said:

"Out of darkness has come light and immense and wondrous strides have taken place. A year ago everything outside of Manila was practically chaos; now, outside of the few provinces where the insurrection still exists everything is in a most flourishing condition. In the 300 miles, from Manila north to Aparri, not a hostile shot has been fired in many months, while houses have been built and are still building, and crops have been planted.

Gov. Wright said he was satisfied that the majority of the Filipinos recognize and appreciate what has been done, and that their leaders were doing all in their power to bring the remaining insurgents to a peaceful view of the situation.

Concluding Gov. Wright said the natives inhabiting the island of Samar had during all their history been an unmanageable race, and he was not surprised at their present hostility.

Maj. Henry Allen, formerly governor of the island of Leyte, and who was chosen chief of the insular constabulary, has left Manila for a tour of inspection through the islands of Leyte and Mindoro. He will report to the commission on the conditions existing between there, and particularly on the situation in the province of Misamis, Mindoro, which the military authorities have asked to have returned from the civil back to their own control.

Five insurgent officers and 175 men, with 6 cannon, 51 rifles and 17 shotguns, surrendered Saturday to the American authorities on the island of Cebu. It is now believed this island is pacified.

CHINESE MORE PROGRESSIVE.

Leading Officials Dine With Conger. Ladies Present.

Pekin, Dec. 30.—Considerable sensation has been caused in Chinese official circles by a dinner given at his residence by United States Minister Conger, and which was attended by the leading officials of the Chinese foreign office. Among the officials present were Ma Tung, a former "Boxer" leader, and Wang Wen Shao, one of the Chinese plenipotentiaries. The dinner was attended by several American ladies.

It was formerly the custom for prominent Chinese officials never to enter a foreign legation except upon the most formal occasion socially would have been considered as degrading as would the associating with Chinese women upon the same footing.

This event is significant of the progressive tendency of to-day, which has recently been manifested in many ways.

A Rebel Leader in Venezuela Routed. Different Times.

Caracas, Venezuela (via Haytian cable), Dec. 30.—General Luciano Mendoza, president-elect of the state of

Carabobo, who rebelled against President Castro, marched on La Victoria and was said to have been defeated, and who was later reported to have escaped to the neighborhood of San Juan de los Moros, is now said to have reached Villa de Cura in the state of Miranda, where he was routed by the Government troops.

In company with a small number of followers he escaped and reached La Puerta, where he was again overtaken and again defeated. Accompanied by only 10 men General Mendoza passed Ortiz in the state of Guarico, December 24. He was proceeding in the direction of mountains considered to be almost inaccessible.

RAILWAY MEN TO FEDERATE.

Lehigh Valley Men Hope to Thus Get Grievances Adjusted.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Dec. 30.—The employees of the Wyoming division of the Lehigh Valley railway have started a movement for the Federation of the brotherhoods of engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, switchmen and telegraphers, which they expect to extend along the entire line from New York to Buffalo. A joint meeting of delegates from all the brotherhoods was held at Pittston Sunday afternoon, and the men were in session for two hours.

Representatives of each brotherhood favored the movement, believing that with the aid of the others the grievances of all could be readily adjusted. After a general discussion a committee comprised of members of each class of workmen was appointed to arrange the preliminaries for the Federation, and another meeting will be held in a short time.

A number of grievances were discussed at the meeting, but no action was taken.

NETHERLANDS CAN'T DECIDE.

No Recent Developments of Importance as to Danish West Indies.

Washington, Dec. 30.—There have been no recent developments of importance in the matter of the proposed sale of the Danish West Indies to this Government, negotiations for which at various times have been carried on between the United States and the Netherlands. The United States has defined its position very clearly as to the terms under which it will purchase the islands, but apparently through the inability of the Netherlands Government to reach a determination to close the deal, the negotiations so far have failed of conclusion.

If any request looking to an arrangement for a plebiscite is in contemplation by the Copenhagen Government, its wishes in this respect have not yet been communicated to the State Department.

Warsaw, Ind., Dec. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Kinsey, pioneer residents of Kosciusko county, Ind., now living here, completed the last day of the sixty-eighth year of their married life Sunday, and celebrated their sixtieth anniversary. Mr. Kinsey is 93 years old, and his wife is 87. Both are in excellent health. They were married in Knox county, O., December 29, 1832, and were natives of Delaware and Maryland, respectively. They are the parents of 10 children, all living, except one, the eldest of whom is nearly 70 years old.

ROBBED OF $6,000.

Thieves Over-Awed Ladies by Throwing Water on One.

Washington, Ga., Dec. 30.—The Misses Battle, two elderly maiden ladies living at Barnett junction on the Washington branch of the Georgia railroad, were robbed of $6,000 in gold. When the robbers entered the house the women, hearing a noise, investigated, lighting a lamp. The robbers dashed a bucket of water on the one holding the lamp and overawed them. The women lived alone in the house.

Several previous attempts have been made to rob them during the last few months. The ladies believe the robbers were white men, having recognized one of them, they say.

SEEN DRAGGING GIRL

Across the Road, In Front of His Home, Was Young Wilcox.

FUNERAL OF MISS CROPSEY.

Large Crowd at Service and Many Showed Her Respect—Member of Committee Said There Was Sufficient Evidence to Convict Wilcox.

Elizabeth City, N. C., Dec. 30.—Funeral services over the body of Miss Nellie Cropsey, whose remains were discovered in the Pasquotank river after a search lasting several weeks, were held in the Methodist church here Sunday. The church was crowded to suffocation, and the street leading to it was lined with people who uncovered as the hearse drove past. The Rev. R. R. Tuttle conducted the services, assisted by the Revs. C. W. Duke and J. B. Forbes, of the Baptist church. At the conclusion of the services the body was placed in the Sunday school room and later will be taken by Andrew G. Cropsey, uncle of the girl, to Brooklyn, for interment. The citizens' committee investigating the affair acted as pallbearers. The jail in which is young Wilcox, who was arrested for alleged participation in the girl's death, lies only a stone's throw from the church. Wilcox knew the funeral was in progress, but showed no emotion, and merely inquired if a large crowd was present. He was more nervous than Saturday, but retained much of the easy manner that has characterized him at all times. The guards were withdrawn from the jail Sunday, and permitted to go home. Public sentiment is strong against Wilcox, but there is less talk of lynching, and some of the ministers Sunday took occasion in their sermons to advise against mob violence. Wilcox absolutely refuses under advice of his attorney, to say anything regarding the case. He asserts that the first statement made by him covers all he knows of the case. He is charged with the murder of the girl, and as the offense is not bailable in this State, he will have to stay in jail pending a trial. It is believed he will waive an examination and permit his case to go direct to the grand jury next March.

A Minister's Advice.

The Rev. L. L. Williams, rector of the Episcopal church, during his morning sermon, referred to the Cropsey case, and said the people should not act hastily in condemning Wilcox. He advised his hearers not to commit any overt act, but to allow the law to take its course.

K. W. Turner, a member of the citizens' committee, asserted Sunday that they would have sufficient evidence to connect Wilcox with the crime. He said:

"We know Miss Cropsey was killed by a blow on the head with a sandbag or blackjack. If the blow was struck while she was on the porch then her unconscious form was dragged across the lawn to the river, only a short distance away. If the blow was struck on the lawn we are convinced she was induced to cross the lawn by Wilcox, and that while walking across she was struck by him. There is another witness who may be called upon to testify. It is R. F. Parker, who told his wife that night after Miss Cropsey disappeared that he had seen Wilcox dragging a girl across the road in front of the Wilcox residence. We will investigate that."

The summary of railroad building
operations in the United States during the past year, made by the Railway
Age, shows some very interesting facts. In four New England states and in Delaware and Nebraska no new roads were built. Fifteen southern states added 1,983 miles of the 5,957
miles built in the whole country, and six southwestern states contributed 1,665 miles. Texas, with 583 miles of new road, led all the states. Oklahoma came next with 428 miles. Next
in order came New Mexico, with 275
miles; Georgia, 203 miles; Wisconsin,
196 miles; Missouri, 189 miles; Indiana, 174 miles; Minnesota, 171 miles;
Illinois, 164 miles; Michigan, 164
miles; Louisiana, 160 miles; Indian Territory, 157 miles; Arkansas, 156
miles and Pennsylvania, 153 miles.
None of the other states contributed
over 150 miles. It will be noted that in the South and Southwest, where
industrial development has been slowest, the increase of railroad mileage
has been greatest. There will soon
be no corner of America where a railroad is needed which will not be penetrated by one. The effect on the industrial future will be incalculably
great.

Prof. Albion Small, of the University of Chicago, says that no man has
an earning capacity in excess of $50,
000 per annum and no man can properly raise a family on less than $1,000
per annum. He would have all wages
adjusted between these figures, but
he neglects to give directions as to
how the readjustment is to be effected.
It might also be interesting if the
professor would tell us if he thinks
the families from which came such distinguished Americans as Benjamin
Franklin, Daniel Webster, Abraham
Lincoln and scores of others who
might be named were not "properly
raised." It is certain that the parents of none of them ever had $1,000 a year in wages or anything like it. No,
professor; the proper raising of a family is not so much a question of the use of money as of the exercise of
good sense and of making the most
of whatever opportunities are presented, even though they may be limited. The doctrine which this educator promulgates would be a most discouraging one, if generally accepted.
Fortunately, very few people are likely to believe it.

Representative Shafroth, of Colorado, has introduced a bill at Washington to set aside as a national park
part of the region in which the abodes
of the vanished Cliff Dwellers are situated. There is good sense as well
as sentiment back of the movement
to preserve these interesting relics
of the earliest Americans. The field
of archaeological research in this country can be developed with the result of adding vastly to the world's knowledge. It is eminently fitting that the preservation of all ancient works
should be carefully looked after, and
this duty can best be entrusted to the government.

The delegates to the Pan-American
congress have signed the Hague convention, pledging their respective countries to submitting their differences to arbitration. Now if they can induce
their governments, without fighting,
to live up to the agreement, the congress will have accomplished a grand
work.

Virginia proposes to have an exposition in 1907 and commemorate the

founding of Jamestown four centuries
ago. The event is worthy of an elaborate celebration, but it is questionable whether the exposition method of observing it will prove either satisfactory or profitable. The country has almost a surfeit of big fairs in recent years.

All the Democratic sympathy goes
out to the brown men of the Philippines, who, it is asserted, are governed without their consent. They have no sympathy for their fellow citizens,
the black men of the south, who are
deprived of the rights which the constitution guarantees them.

Spain had control of Porto Rico nearly 400 years, but never built a school house there. The United States has only just assumed the direction of the affairs of the island, but already there
are nearly 1,000, and more to be established. Civilization and prosperity
follow the free school.

Uncle Sam and John Bull will once
more try to settle the Alaskan boundary dispute. There would have been no dispute had not the Klondike gold
discovery made the ownership of territory in that part of the world something worth looking after.

It is predicted that seats on the New York stock exchange will soon
sell for $100,000 each. There are doubtless men who would be glad to give that sum had they never allied themselves with that den of bulls and bears.

The opening of the Uganda railroad,
582 miles in length, through the heart
of what was once Darkest Africa, is now announced. It will be a mighty agent in shaping the future of one of

OBITUARY

Henry Shaw.

The death of Henry Shaw, aged 65 occurred early yesterday morning at his home on Norton street. He had been ill for only a few days with pneumonia. Mr. Shaw was born in Staffordshire, England, and went to Trenton, N. J., 22 years ago, where he worked as a jiggerman in the Trenton potteries. He came to East Liverpool three months ago. Four daughters reside here: Mrs. Frederick Hulse, Mrs.
Frederick Walklett, and Misses Anna and Sarah Shaw.

Mr. Shaw was a member of Camp
No. 667, Independent Order of Foresters, of Trenton, and of the Trenton Episcopal church. Funeral services will be conducted from the late residence on Norton street at 2:30 p. m.
tomorrow and the remains will be shipped in the evening to Trenton for burial.

POTTERY NEWS

A manufacturing potter ventured the assertion Saturday evening that should the pottery owners confine themselves to making a special line of goods, the profits at the end of the year would be much larger than now.
Since the Union has decided to make no hollow ware in the future the trade that was presented to this firm in the past will go to other manufacturers.
hence an increase in the clay shops of some other plants will have to be made. The trade will have to be supplied, and if not by one factory, then by another.

The word has been passed around at the Harker pottery that when the plant resumes operations this week the employees need not look for a suspension of work until next July. The announcement was made to one of the employees the other day by one of the company, which goes to prove that never before were the local potteries
so rushed with business as at present.

The machinery that will be installed at the Barberton pottery will be erected by Jean Jester, of this city. It is said that Jester will become associated with this company after the plant is in operation. Jester, for the past year, has been connected with a Dayton machine company as a traveling representative.

It was proposed to start the clay shops at the Laughlin No. 2 this morning, but this was deferred one day on account of a new piece of machinery being installed in the slip house. This department will start in full tomorrow and will not stop for New Year's.

Robert Hawkins, who has been connected with the Union pottery since that plant was started, closed a contract Friday whereby he will be associated with the company now building the pottery at Barberton, O. He will probably become foreman of the clay shops.

W. G. Jackson will look after the west and northwest for the Dresden pottery next year, while W. C. Browne will travel in the east and central states for the same firm. Mr. Knoblock, of this firm, will also make several trips during the year.

Several firms here will bid for the contract for furnishing the United States hospital, New York, with crockery for the New Year. The contract is said to be worth several thousand dollars. Bids will close next week.

According to a statement by President J. R. Warner, of the National,
the damage caused by the recent fire
to that plant will be repaired this week. A number of men are now engaged doing repair work.

H. Schwartz, owning a crockery store on the Bowery, New York, was in the city Saturday, placing orders.
He remained in the city but a short time, leaving for Pittsburg Saturday
evening.

Ike Harris, a well known crockery buyer from the south, was in the city several days last week. He placed orders for several car load lots to be shipped within the next few weeks.

A display of ware, made by the Edwin M. Knowles China company, has been made in the windows of the F. E.
Oyster block at Third street and Broadway.

The packers in the old end of the K.
T. & K. pottery loafed Saturday afternoon for the first time in months. Work was resumed this morning as usual.

The Union Pottery company shipped two full car load orders last week.
The National Pottery company shipped a car load order Saturday.

John Lillis, a dipper at the Taylor, Smith & Taylor pottery, accompanied by his brother, is visiting their old home at Baltimore.

Charles Och, a jiggerman at the Dresden, is spending the holidays at Wheeling accompanied by his young bride.

William Steele, office man at the G.
F. Brunt Porcelain works, spent Sunday in Steubenville visiting friends.

The decorating shops of the National pottery resumed operations this morning after a brief shut down.

W. E. Wells and H. A. McNicol, who have been in the east for several days have returned home.

The clay shops at the Harker pottery will resume operations next Thursday.

The summary of railroad building
operations in the United States during
the past year, made by the Railway
Age, shows some very interesting
facts. In four New England states and
in Delaware and Nebraska no new
roads were built. Fifteen southern
states added 1,983 miles of the 5,057
miles built in the whole country, and
six southwestern states contributed
1,665 miles. Texas, with 583 miles of
new road, led all the states. Oklahoma came next with 428 miles. Next
in order came New Mexico, with 275
miles; Georgia, 203 miles; Wisconsin,
196 miles; Missouri, 189 miles; Indiana, 174 miles; Minnesota, 171 miles;
Illinois, 164 miles; Michigan, 164
miles; Louisiana, 160 miles; Indian Territory, 157 miles; Arkansas, 156
miles and Pennsylvania, 153 miles.
None of the other states contributed
over 150 miles. It will be noted that in the South and Southwest, where
industrial development has been slow-
est, the increase of railroad mileage
has been greatest. There will soon
be no corner of America where a railroad is needed which will not be penetrated by one. The effect on the
great.

Prof. Albion Small, of the University of Chicago, says that no man has
an earning capacity in excess of $50,- 000 per annum and no man can properly raise a family on less than $1,000
per annum. He would have all wages
adjusted between these figures, but
he neglects to give directions as to
how the readjustment is to be effected.
It might also be interesting if the
professor would tell us if he thinks
the families from which came such
Franklin, Daniel Webster, Abraham
Lincoln and scores of others who
might be named were not "properly
raised." It is certain that the parents
of none of them ever had $1,000 a year in wages or anything like it. No,
professor; the proper raising of a
family is not so much a question of the
use of money as of the exercise of
good sense and of making the most
of whatever opportunities are presented, even though they may be limited. The doctrine which this educator promulgates would be a most discouraging one, if generally accepted.
Fortunately, very few people are likely to believe it.

Representative Shafroth, of Colorado, has introduced a bill at Washington to set aside as a national park
part of the region in which the abodes
of the vanished Cliff Dwellers are situated. There is good sense as well
as sentiment back of the movement
to preserve these interesting relics
of archaeological research in this
country can be developed with the
result of adding vastly to the world's
knowledge. It is eminently fitting that
the preservation of all ancient works
should be carefully looked after, and
this duty can best be entrusted to the
government.

The delegates to the Pan-American
congress have signed the Hague convention, pledging their respective countries to submitting their differences to arbitration. Now if they can induce
their governments, without fighting,
to live up to the agreement, the con-
work.

Virginia proposes to have an exposition in 1907 and commemorate the

founding of Jamestown four centuries
ago. The event is worthy of an elaborate celebration, but it is questionable whether the exposition method of observing it will prove either satisfactory or profitable. The country
has almost a surfeit of big fairs in
recent years.

All the Democratic sympathy goes
out to the brown men of the Philippines, who, it is asserted, are governed without their consent. They have
no sympathy for their fellow citizens,
the black men of the south, who are
deprived of the rights which the constitution guarantees them.

Spain had control of Porto Rico nearly 400 years, but never built a school house there. The United States has
only just assumed the direction of the affairs of the island, but already there
are nearly 1,000, and more to be established. Civilization and prosperity
follow the free school.

Uncle Sam and John Bull will once
more try to settle the Alaskan boundary dispute. There would have been
no dispute had not the Klondike gold
discovery made the ownership of territory in that part of the world something worth looking after.

It is predicted that seats on the
New York stock exchange will soon
sell for $100,000 each. There are doubtless men who would be glad to
give that sum had they never allied
themselves with that den of bulls and
bears.

The opening of the Uganda railroad,
582 miles in length, through the heart
of what was once Darkest Africa, is
agent in shaping the future of one of the richest regions on earth, as far as natural resources go.

One who believes the Democratic papers might expect to see the Ohio capital resemble a South American revolutionary field in the next few

Accused of Getting Illegal Divorce to Marry Another Woman.

Kansas City, Dec. 30.—Rev. James
A. Heath, who is alleged to have illegally secured a divorce from his wife in New York in order to marry a Kansas City woman, was deposed from the ministry and expelled from the Calvary Baptist church at a meeting of the congregation Sunday.

Mr. Heath was formerly pastor of the Baptist church at Castle, N. Y., where his wife and children now reside. Rev. Charles A. Merrill, the present pastor of the church at Castle, came here and assisted in collecting the evidence against his predecessor.

HIS LEG BROKEN

A Tin Mill Workman Gets a Bad Fall From a Slippery Board.

At the tin mill Saturday night Thomas Allcock, a roller, met with an accident which will lay him up for several weeks. He was walking on a muddy board when his feet slipped and precipitated him 10 feet to the ground.

As a result of the fall he sustained severe injuries to his right leg, three bones being broken above the ankle. Friends removed him to the home of Mr. Edgar and a physician summoned who alleviated his suffering.

Glass Hearing Deferred.

F. Glass, one of the young men who, it is alleged, unlawfully disturbed a religious meeting at Asbury chapel last week, was arraigned before Squire Johnston Saturday afternoon. No witnesses being present, he was liberated from custody upon furnishing $300 bond. The trial was set for tomorrow afternoon, but was this morning extended until Friday, owing to the prosecutor, Rev. Mr. Carnahan, having to assist in the funeral services of Mrs. McBane at Wellsville.

A Factor in the Race.

In a review of the candidates who will appear on the ticket next Thursday for election to the mayoralty of Chester, the name of W. H. Piper was inadvertently admitted. Mr. Piper has long been a resident of Chester and has an enviable reputation. He has made a good record while acting as councilman and will receive much earnest support.

Vote Guessing.

The judges appointed to count the votes and award the prizes for the man guessing the correct number of votes which will be cast for the various victorious candidates are Messrs. James Schooler, George E. Lewis and Dick Johnson.

Will Drill a Well.

J. Howard Maxwell and James Flood went out to the Turkeyfoot oil region this morning for the purpose of having preparations made for the drilling of a well on their lease.

CHESTER NOTES.

Mrs. James McGovrick was up from Congo visiting today.
William Kinney was a business visitor in Chester today.
Prof. Robert Morrow, of the Duquesne Conservatory of Music, Pittsburg, was the guest of Messrs. Allison and Baxter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Stewart are visiting relatives in Millport.

Wilbur Grover, after a week's illness, is again on duty at the Allison grocery.

Jack Webster is recovering from the effects of injuries received to his arm in a recent accident.

E. C. Baxter has gone to Wellsburg where he will try to lease several hundred acres of coal land.

Many car loads of apples are being shipped from the fruit region below Congo to various cities over the country.

The regular monthly meeting of the Grant district board of education will be held in Chester next Saturday afternoon.

The improvement of Sixth street from Virginia avenue to the tin mills was finished Saturday and teams can now travel the road without difficulty.

The crossing leading from the Chester grocery to Spivey's meat market has been improved materially by the scattering of a load of wads from one of the potteries.

Harry Mercer will have a new house erected on his lot near First street. The brick and lumber have been hauled, and the excavation for the cellar will commence next Monday.

Before the service in the Methodist church last evening it was announced that Rev. David A. Green, of Fairview, would preach to the Presbyterians next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Recorder Marshall is making a canvass of Chester for the purpose of securing the correct list of qualified voters who will likely vote at the coming election. It is thought the number will not exceed 175.

WELLSVILLE

BUSIEST SPOT IN TOWN

A Glimpse of What Goes On in the Railroad Repair Shop in the West End.

The railroad repair shop, in the West End, operated by the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad company, is certainly the greatest acquisition of which Wellsville can boast. The shop is divided into several departments—namely, a machine, blacksmith, carpenter, car and several other minor departments. There is also a store room in connection, in which can be found everything which the employees need for the performing of their work.

The machine shop is the largest of all. In it 90 men are employed. Their work is chiefly that of repairing broken down engines. At present six locomotives are being overhauled. This department is in charge of Frank Fox, an expert machinist of Ft. Wayne, Ind. He is ably assisted by Charles Hall, of Pittsburg. In the several departments there are almost 400 men employed and the wages received by them range from 13 cents per hour to 30 cents and some of the more skilled workmen receive more.

There is one pay day per month, and the amount thereby given out, most of which is spent with the business men of Wellsville, sometimes exceeds $20,000.

Owing to an oversupply of work the shop is now running 13 hours three days in the week and 10 hours the remainder. Over 40 names appeared on the absentee list last week, some of whom are sick and some visiting relatives for the holidays.

DANCER AT CITY HALL

Young People Resent the Imputation That They Are Not Orderly.

At a recent meeting of the ministerial association of Wellsville, the reverend gentlemen passed a resolution which demands that each member of the association do all in his power to prohibit the renting of the city hall to dancing parties. As a result of this resolution a local paper severely and daringly attacked those who attend these dances. The article conveyed the idea that all the dancers, with the exception of one class, had been guilty of the lowest conduct, and that after a dance dozens of beer, whisky and wine bottles could be found in an ante-room of the hall.

Many indignant utterances from the dancers have been heard. They claim that all the dancers cannot be judged by a few. The hall is rented to any party who produces the necessary cash. Nearly every week representatives of the leading families of Wellsville dance there and they resent the imputation that they do not behave as they should.

Father Halliday Absent.

Rev. Father J. H. Halliday, having been summoned to Philadelphia on account of the death of his sister, the services at the Church of the Immaculate Conception were conducted yesterday by Rev. Dr. O'Reilly, of the Cathedral, of Cleveland. A large congregation greeted the visiting minister and his discourses rendered were pronounced as being highly entertaining and beneficial.

The Cutting Off of Passes.

A statement having been posted by the Pennsylvania company, which will do away with the issuing of passes to the families of employed, the order to take effect next Wednesday, is partially the cause for so many Wellsville people making trips to Pittsburg and other stations along the line this week. At the Savoy theater Henry Miller is drawing large crowds nightly to witness his exquisitely delicate performance in "D'Arcy of the Guards." This play, by Louis Evan Shipman, is not startling in any particular, nor is it strikingly commonplace. It is a sweet, wholesome, dainty love story of a light hearted Irish grenadier, a major in the guards. An Irish love story seems at all times to go to the hearts of any class, but as few people are "lumps of ice" such an actor as Henry Miller easily arouses the sympathy of the audience in the progress of his suit. No one "in front" can blame Pamela for loving him in spite of his red coat. Judging from the remarks heard after the performance, there were many Pamelas in the house.

It is a real pleasure to witness a pure, sweet play in the hands of an artist like Mr. Miller. The dignity and refinement of his acting only accentuate the bashful awkwardness of Jack D'Arcy, and his Irish heart, bursting with love, is refreshing in his confidence to his friend, whose lack of fire is irritating to the man whose every fiber is aflame with the burning passion. To sum it all up Mr. Miller is charming as Jack D'Arcy, and those who fail to see him lose a rare treat. Add to this the fact that surrounding the star is a very excellent cast and that the atmosphere and setting are good, and there is nothing left to be desired.

Pamela Townshend is played by Florence Rockwell, a young actress who has been two seasons with Henry Miller. This character shows Miss Rockwell in the best acting she has yet done and proves that hard work is necessary to a rise on the ladder of fame. Her portrayal of the patriotic American girl and the unwilling hostess who still is a lady is excellent. The little jealousy as to the original of a portrait in a locket worn by the major is well kept under until the moment when her relief is shown at the knowledge that it is "only his mother." A little stiffness in the first act prevented at the beginning the favorable impression which Miss Rockwell left on the audience, but as a whole the lady must be congratulated on her good work.

Arthur Elliot in the dual role of Colonel Jenkinson and Samuel Davis of the Friends did good work. Captain Gregory and Sambo, respectively played by Walter Allen and Otis Turner, were most pleasing, but, after the star, among the men Charles F. Gotthold stood in bold relief. This gentleman, as Captain Henry Townshend, the brother of the heroine, did a first class bit of acting. He has much ability. One of the hits of the performance was the introduction of the song "Sally In Our Alley," sung by one of the English officers at the convivial meeting "for business" in the house of the Townshends. This gentleman is not named on the programme except as one of the staff, as his part is a small one, but when a man is possessed of such a voice it is a pity not to let him have the credit due him. Three encores attested the feelings of the audience. And the chorus of the officers was most delightful. The entire scene was as good as anything of the kind ever shown on the stage.

The many admirers of Mr. Miller must be pleased to see that his great ability is equally shown in comedy—a new departure for him.

Some time ago the critic of The St. James Gazette of London made the absurd assertion that English actors have their art dulled when they visit America by reason of the fact that they attempt to adjust their methods to our coarse, materialistic demand for noise and robustness. The hope was expressed that Mrs. Patrick Campbell would resist the temptation to strengthen her technique during her American tour, and it was intimated that if she held aloof and continued on the lines upon which she has won fame in England she would not be appreciated here. This was interesting mainly because of the fact that Londoners accepted it seriously, and the provincial papers took up the discussion, which was carried on with as much gravity as a cabinet meeting.

It is a fact that England has sent us several exceedingly good actors. She has also sent us some outrageously bad ones. We have shipped some of our histrionic dunnage to them, too, but we have likewise permitted them to witness performances by players as good as any to be found in the "right little, tight little isle." So, take it all in all, the score is about even.

But it is absurd to speak of English or American actors as a class when the point of relative merit is to be discussed. The good actor is good in any country, and the bad one is bad anywhere. The exact locality in which he may be appearing obviously cannot have anything to do with the quality of his performance.

The statement of the critic of The St. James Gazette would be unworthy of attention were it not that several eminent players in this country have been betrayed into defending from these impertinent aspersions the people whose approval has given them whatever prominence they may possess. Among these is Kyrie Bellw, the star of "A Gentleman of France." Mr. Bellw, being an Englishman, with a long and honorable experience in almost every civilized country on the globe to draw upon, is, naturally, peculiarly qualified to pass upon the merits of the present controversy. Mr. Bellw declares that not only is the critic of The St. James Gazette mistaken, but that American actors are the best, keenest and most intelligent in the world. His idea is that they see more quickly and more clearly than the players of any country the fine points of a role and that, moreover, it is not necessary to enlighten them as to the exact details of an interpretation.

This is all very nice of Mr. Bellw, the more especially since what he says is strictly true; but, after all, there was really no necessity for it, for the assertion of The St. James Gazette critic from beginning to end was so stupid as to carry its own refutation.

Really this war between the theatrical managers and the so called "ticket speculators" of this city is intensely amusing. Most of the managers are making every apparent effort to suppress the speculators while hoping that their efforts may fail. Other managers are trying in an earnest way to do away with these intolerable nuisances. They wish to succeed for the reason that they realize that the speculator is an incubus on the theatrical business. The speculator may appear to be a good thing for the house when the latter has a strong attraction which plays to capacity at practically every performance, but in the long run he is a detriment, giving the place a bad name and laying the manager open to the suspicion of "standing in" with him. What is more, it is beyond question that in many cases there has been substantial foundation for this suspicion.

However, no matter what the merits of the case, it is a simple matter for any one who is in dead earnest to do away with the speculator. Simply let him follow the plan long employed by the late Augustin Daly of giving the purchaser a sort of memorandum receipt numbered to correspond with a stub which is not handed to the patron until he enters the theater door. This stub gives the information necessary for the identification of the purchaser, and to it are pinned the coupons for the seats to which he is entitled.

No speculator would have the assurance to expect a theater patron to buy seats from him on his mere word that they are located in a certain portion of the house when he would have nothing to show for them other than a slip indicating that the holder was entitled to seats somewhere in the building. The seats might be worth 50 cents apiece or they might be worth $2 apiece at box office rates, according to their location. And, then, even if a speculator were inclined to take chances with such vague evidences of the right to occupy so many of the seats in a theater on a given night, he would have great difficulty in finding a sufficient number of persons with the necessary confidence in human nature to accept his statement at its face value.

That is the way to abolish the ticket speculators, and the only way, unless the city council will pass an ordinance making their business illegal. This it is not likely to do so long as the theaters of this city continue to sell the best seats in the house in advance to the ticket agents at the hotels, the latter incidentally exacting a minimum advance of 50 cents on the box office price.

Man's Productive Powers Far Beyond His Needs

By Rev. Dr. HORACE EUMSTEAD, President of Atlanta University

THROUGH THE DIVISION OF LABOR, THE INVENTION OF MACHINERY AND THE COMBINATIONS OF CAPITAL THE PRODUCTIVE POWERS OF MAN ARE BEING RAPIDLY INCREASED TO A POINT OF EFFICIENCY FAR IN EXCESS OF THE NEEDS OF HIS PHYSICAL NATURE. There seems every reason to believe that this productive power of man is to go on increasing indefinitely. At the same time the capacity of the human stomach and the superficial area of the human body remain substantially constant quantities through all the advancing stages of civilization, so that there is a limit to the amount of bread and cloth which man can use in being hungry and progresses, less and quired AND FEWER WILL BE EMPLOYED in ministering to the race, even including reasonable increase in finements of a whole-ence. From this curious condition of things only two results are possible. One is increased idleness, luxury and vice, leading to the arrest of civilization and possibly to the decay and death of large portions of the race. The other is the diversion of the surplus labor and wealth of the world into channels that shall minister to the aesthetic, intellectual, ethical and spiritual development of the race.

Who can doubt that in this latter alternative we find the desire and purpose of God?

AFTER SPANISH GOLD

HOW A WHOLE COUNTRY IS HUNTING A TREASURE.

Money Is Believed to Be Buried in a Cave in Swallow Rock, Ill.—Alleged That Spaniards Hid It There Three Hundred Years Ago.

[Special Correspondence.] CARBONDALE, Ill., Dec. 23.—If you happen to know of a big cave in Jackson county, Ill., and if it happens to be the cave all that county and portions of two or three others are looking for just now, your information will be worth considerable money. In the east every now and then there is a sensation over Captain Kidd's buried treasure, but it is seldom that the west gets excited over anything less than a cave with a couple of million dollars in it, and it must be an old cave at that. This Jackson county cave is an antique, and its hoard of gold has just enough rust on it to tinge the whole story with romance.

Here at Carbondale and at Murphysboro and other towns the hidden treas-

MOUTH OF A SUPPOSED TREASURE CAVE. ure is the chief topic of interest. All who can get away are hot on its trail. The story which has made almost the entire population of the county an army of gold seekers is as follows: Somewhere in the Swallow Rock district, which lies along the Mississippi the length of the county, is a sealed cave. In this sealed cave are pots of gold placed there 300 years ago by Spanish adventurers who were sore pressed by Indians of the southwest and took refuge in the rough country back of Grand Tower. They established a stronghold in the rocks and dispatched messengers to the gulf of Mexico for aid. To secure their treasure for their people in the event of disaster they sealed it in a cave and sent by the messengers directions for finding the treasure inscribed upon buckskin. The Indians laid siege to the place, and here perished miserably the entire Spanish force save the two messengers sent to the gulf.

The first white settlers were visited by two Spaniards who carried the buckskin map. They searched for the treasure for months, and finally one of them returned to Spain. The other became ill and went to Cairo, where he died. The map disappeared, presumably going with the man who returned to Spain.

Where the Spaniards had abandoned the search the settlers in the neighborhood took it up. They hammered the solid cliffs, seeking sounds that would locate the sealed cave. They cleaned out crevices and rolled away boulders. Like nimble gatherers of the edelweiss, they scaled high cliffs and went up and down upon ropes and vines. But never a pot of gold did they find. Their children did it all over again, and never a thing did they find. Then the grandchildren, thinking their ancestors less cunning than they, took a new whirl at it.

The proof that the search has been going on in Swallow Rock for years and years is everywhere. Almost every crevice and rock in the district bears evidence that explosives and pickaxes have been at work. The cliffs have been hammered and hunted, and black powder and dynamite have hurled huge boulders of limestone down the hills. There are inscriptions in rocks that date back three-quarters of a century. Heavy timbers have been put in where there was danger of rocks falling in on the searchers. At the foot of the bluffs the whole level is a tenting ground for treasure hunters, and everywhere are the ashes of their camps.

The Swallow Rock country is about the roughest place imaginable. It is primitive, wild and sparsely peopled. It is just the place for treasure. Its isolation would delight a Stevenson; its caves would charm a Captain Kidd. It is a beautiful country, however. The cliffs are as white as birch bark, and there are stately sweet gums, splendid black gums, sugar trees and beeches. It is easily understood why so many who have faith in the treasure go and look for it, for finders are keepers in this primitive place.

Two citizens of Murphysboro have gone over Swallow Rock almost as carefully as a prisoner seeking to escape goes over his cell, and recently they made a discovery that roused the treasure fever of the community. They found a cave in which was what they believed to be a wall of cement. They spent days working into this wall with pick and dynamite, but it profited them nothing. They are still after the money, however, and you couldn't blast their hopes of getting it with dynamite.

A great deal of money and time are being spent in Jackson county in this search, but faith in a treasure is a faith by itself. Although no one has yet won reward, the hunt for the gold said to have been sealed in a cave by Spaniards 300 years ago still goes on.

Sayings About Breadcrumbs. In the days when the "bread loaf" was dear careful mothers had a set of thrift sayings which are seldom heard in this time of the big, cheap loaf. Crumbs were regularly swept up and kept for some useful purpose. If a child threw crumbs in the fire, the old fashioned mother lifted a warning finger and said, "If you throw crumbs in the fire, you are feeding the devil." Children were told that the better part of a loaf was the crust, and when a child was sent to the shop for bread the order was to ask for "a crusty loaf." If a child left its crust, came the warning: "Yes, my lady or my lad, you'll want for a loaf some day. You'll find hunger's a sharp thorn."

Moffat's Life Pills

The Great Stomach and Liver Medicine.

Established by one of our most Eminent Physicians of New York City and now used in the United States and all foreign countries with more pleasing results than any other medicine ever compounded.

There is hardly a family among civilized nations who have not personal evidence of their beneficial effects. Their great success is owing to their uniform reliability in cases of Constipation, Bilious and Stomachic diseases, whether of long or short duration. They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and harmless to the gentlest infant. One ingredient opens the pores of the skin; another is diuretic, and stimulates proper action of the kidneys; a third is emollient, loosening phlegm and humor from the lungs; other properties are warming and cathartic, and cleanse the stomach and bowels from unhealthy secretions. Their combined effect is, to regulate the impaired functions of the system, and to produce health.

If you feel sick, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, dizziness, bilious or sick headache, your stomach and liver are out of order, correct these at once by using Moffat's Life Pills.

They are a positive cure for Malaria, Biliousness, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Colds, La Grippe, Aching Limbs, Rheumatism, Impure Blood, Chills and Fever and all other diseases arising from a disordered condition of the stomach and liver.

the house when he would have nothing to show for them other than a slip indicating that the holder was entitled to seats somewhere in the building. The seats might be worth 50 cents apiece or they might be worth $2 apiece at box office rates, according to their location. And, then, even if a speculator were inclined to take chances with such vague evidences of the right to occupy so many of the seats in a theater on a given night, he would have great difficulty in finding a sufficient number of persons with the necessary confidence in human nature to accept his statement at its face value.

That is the way to abolish the ticket speculators, and the only way, unless the city council will pass an ordinance making their business illegal. This it is not likely to do so long as the theaters of this city continue to sell the best seats in the house in advance to the ticket agents at the hotels, the latter incidentally exacting a minimum advance of 50 cents on the box office price.

Man's Productive Powers Far Beyond His Needs

By Rev. Dr. HORACE BUMSTEAD, President of Atlanta University

seems every reason to believe that this productive power of man is to go on increasing indefinitely. At the same time the capacity of the human stomach and the superficial area of the human body remain substantially constant quantities through all the advancing stages of civilization, so that there is a limit to the amount of bread and cloth which man can use in being hungry and progresses, less and quired AND FEWER WILL BE EMPLOYED in ministering to the race, even including reasonable increase in finements of a whole-ence. From this curious condition of things only two results are possible. One is increased idleness, luxury and vice, leading to the arrest of civilization and possibly to the decay and death of large portions of the race. The other is the diversion of the surplus labor and wealth of the world into channels that shall minister to the aesthetic, intellectual, ethical and spiritual development of the race.

Who can doubt that in this latter alternative we find the desire and purpose of God?

AFTER SPANISH GOLD

HOW A WHOLE COUNTY IS HUNTING A TREASURE.

Money Is Believed to Be Buried in a Cave in Swallow Rock, Ill.—Alleged That Spaniards Hid It There Three Hundred Years Ago.

[Special Correspondence.]
CARBONDALE, Ill., Dec. 23.—If you happen to know of a big cave in Jackson county, Ill., and if it happens to be the cave all that county and portions of two or three others are looking for just now, your information will be worth considerable money. In the east every now and then there is a sensation over Captain Kidd's buried treasure, but it is seldom that the west gets excited over anything less than a cave with a couple of million dollars in it, and it must be an old cave at that. This Jackson county cave is an antique, and its hoard of gold has just enough rust on it to tinge the whole story with romance.

Here at Carbondale and at Murphysboro and other towns the hidden treas-

ure is the chief topic of interest. All who can get away are hot on its trail. The story which has made almost the entire population of the county an army of gold seekers is as follows:

Somewhere in the Swallow Rock district, which lies along the Mississippi the length of the county, is a sealed cave. In this sealed cave are pots of gold placed there 300 years ago by Spanish adventurers who were sore pressed by Indians of the southwest and took refuge in the rough country back of Grand Tower. They established a stronghold in the rocks and dispatched messengers to the gulf of Mexico for aid. To secure their treasure for their people in the event of disaster they sealed it in a cave and sent by the messengers directions for finding the treasure inscribed upon buckskin. The Indians laid siege to the place, and here perished miserably the entire Spanish force save the two messengers sent to the gulf.

The first white settlers were visited by two Spaniards who carried the buckskin map. They searched for the treasure for months, and finally one of them returned to Spain. The other became ill and went to Cairo, where he died. The map disappeared, presumably going with the man who returned to Spain.

Where the Spaniards had abandoned the search the settlers in the neighborhood took it up. They hammered the solid cliffs, seeking sounds that would locate the sealed cave. They cleaned out crevices and rolled away boulders. Like nimble gatherers of the edelweiss, they scaled high cliffs and went up and down upon ropes and vines. But never a pot of gold did they find. Their children did it all over again, and never a thing did they find. Then the grandchildren, thinking their ancestors less cunning than they, took a new whirl at it.

The proof that the search has been going on in Swallow Rock for years and years is everywhere. Almost every crevice and rock in the district bears evidence that explosives and pickaxes have been at work. The cliffs have been hammered and hunted, and black powder and dynamite have hurled huge boulders of limestone down the hills. There are inscriptions in rocks that date back three-quarters of a century. Heavy timbers have been put in where there was danger of rocks falling in on the searchers. At the foot of the bluffs the whole level is a tenting ground for treasure hunters, and everywhere are the ashes of their camps.

The Swallow Rock country is about the roughest place imaginable. It is primitive, wild and sparsely peopled. It is just the place for treasure. Its isolation would delight a Stevenson; its caves would charm a Captain Kidd. It is a beautiful country, however. The cliffs are as white as birch bark, and there are stately sweet gums, splendid black gums, sugar trees and beeches. It is easily understood why so many who have faith in the treasure go and look for it, for finders are keepers in this primitive place.

Two citizens of Murphysboro have gone over Swallow Rock almost as carefully as a prisoner seeking to escape goes over his cell, and recently they made a discovery that roused the treasure fever of the community. They found a cave in which was what they believed to be a wall of cement. They spent days working into this wall with pick and dynamite, but it profited them nothing. They are still after the money, however, and you couldn't blast their hopes of getting it with dynamite.

A great deal of money and time are being spent in Jackson county in this search, but faith in a treasure is a faith by itself. Although no one has yet won reward, the hunt for the gold said to have been sealed in a cave by Spaniards 300 years ago still goes on.

Sayings About Breadcrumbs.
In the days when the "bread loaf" was dear careful mothers had a set of thrift sayings which are seldom heard in this time of the big, cheap loaf. Crumbs were regularly swept up and kept for some useful purpose. If a child threw crumbs in the fire, the old fashioned mother lifted a warning finger and said, "If you throw crumbs in the fire, you are feeding the devil." Children were told that the better part of a loaf was the crust, and when a child was sent to the shop for bread the order was to ask for "a crusty loaf." If a child left its crust, came the warning: "Yes, my lady (or my lad), you'll want for a loaf some day. You'll find hunger's a sharp thorn."

Moffat's Life Pills

The Great Stomach and Liver Medicine.

Established by one of our most Eminent Physicians of New York City and now used in the United States and all foreign countries with more pleasing results than any other medicine ever compounded.

There is hardly a family among civilized nations who have not personal evidence of their beneficial effects. Their great success is owing to their uniform reliability in cases of Constipation, Bilious and Stomachic diseases, whether of long or short duration. They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and harmless to the gentlest infant. One ingredient opens the pores of the skin; another is diuretic, and stimulates proper action of the kidneys; a third is emollient, loosening phlegm and humor from the lungs; other properties are warming and cathartic, and cleanse the stomach and bowels from unhealthy secretions. Their combined effect is, to regulate the impaired functions of the system, and to produce health.

If you feel sick, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, dizziness, bilious or sick headache, your stomach and liver are out of order, correct these at once by using Moffat's Life Pills.

They are a positive cure for Malaria, Biliousness, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Colds, La Grippe, Aching Limbs, Rheumatism, Impure Blood, Chills and Fever and all other diseases arising from a disordered condition of the stomach and liver.

These pills act on the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys, purify and regulate the whole system, and are guaranteed to cure and give satisfaction or money refunded.

Ask your Druggist for Moffat's Life Pills and take no other. If he has not got them or will not get them for you, they will be sent by mail on receipt of 25 Cents a Box or 5 boxes for $1.00. Sold by all first class Druggists. Plain or sugar coated.

DENIAL BY FORAKER.

Did Not Speak of Hanna to Roosevelt, in a Derogatory Manner.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM THEY'LL WIN.

Senate and House Republican Cau-causes to Be Held Next Saturday.
Baker Likely to Be Democratic Nominee for Senator.

Cincinnati, Dec. 30.—The contest at Columbus during the coming week between the followers of Senator Foraker and those of Senator Hanna over the organization of the Legislature, has extended to factional circles elsewhere in the State. While the members of the Legislature and candidates are fighting at Columbus, the principals are kept busy at long distance telephones, notably Senator Foraker and George B. Cox in Cincinnati; Senator Hanna, in Washington; Congressman Dick, chairman of the State Executive Committee, and other Republican leaders.

Senator Foraker is being visited here by many leaders and members of the Legislature. Sunday he made the following statement:

Substance of Foraker's Denial.

"The story published from New York that I spoke to the President in a derogatory manner of Senator Hanna, and that the President communicated the same to Senator Hanna and told him to be on his guard, lest he have trouble to maintain his leadership in Ohio politics, is an unqualified falsehood from beginning to end. I never had any such talk with the President, and it is not creditable to him to suppose that he would have retold it to Senator Hanna if I had. This story is but a sample of many others appearing in newspapers, and being peddled about from mouth to mouth for mischievous purposes."

Most of the Republican members
this year are serving their first terms, and according to precedent they are expected to be members of the next Legislature, which elects Senator
Hanna's successor two years hence.
While there is no opposition to the re-election of Senator Foraker two weeks hence, it is claimed that there is an organized movement to defeat Senator Hanna two years hence. As the presiding officers in the appointment of the committees and other functions have great influence, the friends of both senators are seeking to control those positions as well as all other offices, including the clerkships, sergeants at arms, etc. The Hanna men admit that they are working for results two years hence, and charge that there is a conspiracy to retire Hanna. In former years there were contests between the Sherman and the Foraker factions, and later between the McKinley and Foraker factions,
but none of the former factional fights approached the present contest in general interest. There are separate Foraker and Hanna tickets, subject to the

so different to the ordinary remedies referring to cures made at distant points which it is hard to verify. There is a reason for Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills commanding home evidence where-ever they are known. It is their wonderful influence in bringing up the standard of nerve force. Mrs. C. L.

Both sides claim a "sure thing," and these claims and counter claims are ex-

THE DISPUTE NOT SETTLED.

Argentina and Chili Have Failed to Agree Upon All Terms of the Protocol.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Advices received Sunday by Senator Infante, the Chilian charge, Sunday confirmed the news already published that the Argentine minister at Santiago had informed the Chilian minister of foreign affairs that Argentina could not accept all the terms of the protocol heretofore signed for the settlement of the dispute, and that some changes would be necessary in the instrument. Senor Infante's information from his government is that there is no foundation whatever for the statement that a change was made in the protocol by the Chilian minister of foreign affairs,
but that, on the contrary, it was published as agreed upon between the representatives of the two governments.

The understanding here is that no formal demand has as yet been made upon the Chilian government for a change in the terms of the protocol, but that the matter has simply been one of informal talk at Santiago. This being the case, the hope is expressed that a satisfactory arrangement may be reached.

Senor Infante continues to express his firm conviction that there will be no war, because of the present misunderstanding. The government of Chili, he says, has been conducting the negotiations in a very amicable manner, and he confidently looks for a peaceful solution of the difficulty.

18 Injured, Several Maybe Fatally, in Chicago, Dec. 30.—Four persons were killed and 18 injured, several of them possibly fatally, in a collision on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad at Malta, Ill., 60 miles west of Chicago.

The trains in collision were the Omaha flyer, an eastbound passenger train, and an eastbound freight train. The freight train, carrying two passenger coaches, one sleeping car and eight of the freight cars were burned, and another sleeping car was partly consumed.

the only person killed outright. Mr.
and Mrs. Rudlo and Mr. Nichols died from their injuries while being brought to Chicago. At St. Luke's hospital it is stated that while several of the injured are in a serious condition, all, it is believed by the attending physicians, will recover.

President Not to Preside.

Washington, Dec. 30.—In a communication to Baron Coubertin, president of the Olympic games to be held in Chicago in 1904, President Roosevelt has indicated that it will not be possible for him to preside on that occasion, as it had been hoped he would.
The President takes the keenest interest in the contests, which are to be the features of the games, and so expressed himself to Baron Coubertin, but regretted that for various reasons it would be impracticable for him to preside.

King Edward's Coronation

Although the coronation of King Edward will not occur until next June,
the coming event is the one absorbing topic in England today, and all are eager to witness what will be the most gorgeous and elaborate ceremony of our time. Everywhere in Great Britain preparations are being made for it. The makers of fashionable robes, the court costumers and the jewelers are working overtime. A great deal of bustle and excitement is going on among the peers and peeresses who will be prominent in the spectacle, and new robes and coronets are being purchased. The question my lady is asking most just now is not,
"Is my hat on straight?" but, "Is my crown on straight?" For them it will be the chance of a lifetime to appear in a coronet, for only at a coronation are they worn.

Rules and regulations governing what is to be worn by the nobility at the king's coronation have been issued by the earl marshal. The peers have been notified that their robes must be of "crimson velvet, edged with miniver, the cape furled with miniver pure, and powdered, with bars or rows of ermine, according to their degree." Barons will wear two rows, viscounts
two rows and a half, earls three rows, marquises three and a half and dukes four rows. These mantles will be worn over "full court dress, uniforms or reg-imentals."

Only the king and queen and the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall will wear jeweled coronets. The earl marshal's order banishes counterfeit pearls
and all jewels from other coronets, which are to be "silver gilt, the caps of crimson velvet, turned with ermine, with gold tassels on top. No jewels or precious stones are to be set or used in coronets, nor counterfeits of pearls instead of silver balls." The number of the latter permitted revives a nice

KING EDWARD IN CORONATION ROBES.

sense of distinction. A baron's coronet bears six silver balls, a viscount's sixteen, an earl's eight, with gold strawberry leaves between; a marquise's four balls and four leaves alternately. A duke's coronet has no balls and has only eight strawberry leaves.

The robes, mantles and coronets to be worn by the peeresses are of the same materials as the men's, with similar graduations in the number of bars of ermine and balls. The length of the trains marks the difference in rank. A baroness is only allowed a train of three feet, a viscountess has one and a quarter yards, countesses have one and a half yards, a marchioness has one and three-quarters yards and a duchess two yards.

No new crown will be made for the queen. King Edward's crown is to be slightly enlarged, but it will undergo no other modification. It weighs thirty-nine ounces and was made in 1838.
Some of the finest jewels in the possession of England's monarch are in the crown. His majesty at the coronation will appear before his subjects in the same elaborate robes worn by his granduncle, George IV. This costume consists of three parts. The most important is the "dalmatica" or imperial robe. It is a three cornered mantle, forming an inverted Y, and fitted very closely about the shoulders. All over it are small embroidered crosses.
Beneath it is worn the "supertunica,"
a sort of short pelerine, having sleeves of gold cloth embroidered with gold flowers. Above both dalmatica and supertunica is worn the "armilla," which is also of gold cloth, but has a deep ermine border. It is placed on the king's shoulders by the archbishop of Westminster.

The royal English state coach in which King Edward and his queen consort will ride to the coronation is an extraordinary vehicle and was built in 1761. It was designed by Sir William Chambers, and the paintings on it were executed by the famous Cipriani. Nothing like it in gorgeousness was ever constructed before or since.

The chair in which King Edward will be crowned is hundreds of years old and has been employed in the coronation of the kings and queens of England since the fourteenth century. It is made of oak, unpolished, and almost devoid of ornamentation. In fact, it looks like an ordinary old fashioned chimney corner armchair, and any one estimate its intrinsic value at about $5.

The only thing remarkable about it is a piece of rough hewn stone inserted beneath the seat. That stone was brought from Scotland in 1296 by Edward I. of England. On it the kings of Scotland were formerly crowned. It was seized by the English as a trophy of war and taken to London, where it has since remained. It is known as the "stone of destiny."

The ceremony of administering the oath to King Edward at the coronation will be as follows:

The archbishop of Canterbury will ask, "Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this kingdom of Britain and the dominions thereto belonging according to the statutes in parliament agreed and the laws and customs of the same?"

His imperial majesty will then answer, "I solemnly promise so to do."

The archbishop will then ask, "Will you to the utmost of your power cause law and justice in mercy to be executed in all your judgments?"

King Edward—I will.

The Archbishop—Will you, to the utmost of your power, maintain the laws of God, the true profession of the gospel and the Protestant reformed religion established by the law and will you preserve unto the bishops and clergy of this realm and to the churches committed to their charge all such rights and privileges as by law do or shall appertain unto them or any of them?

King Edward—All this I promise to do.

After this his imperial majesty will lay his hand upon the holy gospel, saying, "The things which I have herebefore promised I will perform and keep,
so help me God," whereupon he will kiss the Bible.

There will be a famous display of jewels at the coronation, and the beautiful peeresses will do their best to outshine one another in the brilliancy of their gems. If they cannot wear jewels on their heads they evidently plan to do so on their bodies, and all London jewelers are now busy making over and resetting heirlooms. Pearls, sapphires and emeralds are to be the favorite stones. Ropes of pearls are to be worn from the shoulders, as though fastening the velvet ruby robes, somewhat the same way in which Queen Alexandra wore them at the opening of parliament.

Undoubtedly the coronation of George IV. transcended almost any other ceremonial of this kind that has ever taken place. At 4 o'clock on the morning of his coronation ten miles of carriages were already wending their way toward Westminster. In public and private expenditure the ceremonial cost close upon two and a half millions. James II. did not aspire to such colossal display.

As near as can be estimated just now the coronation of King Edward will lift about $7,000,000 out of the pockets of government and peerage and high society generally and transfer it to London tradesfolk.

"So you may, darling."

"But, mummy, I haven't any mon-

The small child considered solemnly for a moment, and then said, "Must it be sugar, mummy?"

"Why, no, darling. I don't mind much. What would you like to do without?"

"How would soap do, mummy,

Did Not Speak of Hanna to Roosevelt, In a Derogatory Manner.

Senate and House Republican Causes to Be Held Next Saturday. Baker Likely to Be Democratic Nominee for Senator.

Cincinnati, Dec. 30.—The contest at Columbus during the coming week between the followers of Senator Foraker and those of Senator Hanna over the organization of the Legislature, has extended to factional circles elsewhere in the State. While the members of the Legislature and candidates are fighting at Columbus, the principals are kept busy at long distance telephones, notably Senator Foraker and George B. Cox in Cincinnati; Senator Hanna, in Washington; Congressman Dick, chairman of the State Executive Committee, and other Republican leaders.

Senator Foraker is being visited here by many leaders and members of the Legislature. Sunday he made the following statement:

Substance of Foraker's Denial.

"The story published from New York that I spoke to the President in a derogatory manner of Senator Hanna, and that the President communicated the same to Senator Hanna and told him to be on his guard, lest he have trouble to maintain his leadership in Ohio politics, is an unqualified falsehood from beginning to end. I never had any such talk with the President, and it is not creditable to him to suppose that he would have retold it to Senator Hanna if I had. This story is but a sample of many others appearing in newspapers, and being peddled about from mouth to mouth for mischievous purposes."

Most of the Republican members this year are serving their first terms, and according to precedent they are expected to be members of the next Legislature, which elects Senator Hanna's successor two years hence. While there is no opposition to the re-election of Senator Foraker two weeks hence, it is claimed that there is an organized movement to defeat Senator Hanna two years hence. As the presiding officers in the appointment of the committees and other functions have great influence, the friends of both senators are seeking to control these positions as well as all other offices, including the clerkships, sergeants at arms, etc. The Hanna men admit that they are working for results two years hence, and charge that there is a conspiracy to retire Hanna. In former years there were contests between the Sherman and the Foraker factions, and later between the McKinley and Foraker factions, but none of the former factional fights approached the present contest in general interest. There are separate Foraker and Hanna tickets, subject to the Senate and House caucuses of Republican members next Saturday. Charles L. Kurtz, formerly secretary to Foraker as Governor, and later chairman of the State committee, leads the anti-Hanna forces and John R. Malloy, the

TOLD IN EAST LIVERPOOL

It's the Evidence of East Liverpool People Published in East Liverpool Papers That Has Made Such a Reputation For A.

W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

Standing clear and distinct, marking the difference, the superior merit, the adaptability to present day ailments is the volume of local testimony for Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. It's so different to the ordinary remedies referring to cures made at distant points which it is hard to verify. There is a reason for Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills commanding home evidence wherever they are known. It is their wonderful influence in bringing up the standard of nerve force. Mrs. C. L. Yeager, of No. 152 Broadway, East Liverpool, O., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's medicines are all good. I got them at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, as I was nervous, run down, felt miserable and the heart action was weak and irregular. The medicine made me strong and my nerves steady, the heart action regular and strong and altogether a different person, as I feel well and hearty again."

present secretary of the State committee, State oil inspector under Gov. Nash, leads the Hanna forces. Both sides claim a "sure thing," and these claims and counter claims are expected to continue during the week.

The Democratic minority presents a scene of harmony. Col. James Kilbourne, formerly the Democratic candidate for Governor, Saturday notified the members from his county not to present his name to the Democratic joint caucus for their nomination for United States Senator. This leaves Charles W. Baker, of Cincinnati, without opposition for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

THE DISPUTE NOT SETTLED.

Argentina and Chili Have Failed to Agree Upon All Terms of the Protocol.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Advices received Sunday by Senator Infante, the Chilean charge, Sunday confirmed the news already published that the Argentine minister at Santiago had informed the Chilean minister of foreign affairs that Argentina could not accept all the terms of the protocol heretofore signed for the settlement of the dispute, and that some changes would be necessary in the instrument. Senator Infante's information from his government is that there is no foundation whatever for the statement that a change was made in the protocol by the Chilean minister of foreign affairs, but that, on the contrary, it was published as agreed upon between the representatives of the two governments.

The understanding here is that a formal demand has as yet been made upon the Chilean government for a change in the terms of the protocol, but that the matter has simply been one of informal talk at Santiago. This being the case, the hope is expressed that a satisfactory arrangement may be reached.

Senator Infante continues to express his firm conviction that there will be no war, because of the present misunderstanding. The government of Chili, he says, has been conducting the negotiations in a very amicable manner, and he confidently looks for a peaceful solution of the difficulty.

FOUR PERSONS WERE KILLED.

18 Injured, Several Maybe Fatally, in a Collision on Chicago & Northwestern.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Four persons were killed and 18 injured, several of them possibly fatally, in a collision on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad at Malta, Ill., 60 miles west of Chicago. The trains in collision were the Omaha flyer, an eastbound passenger train, and an eastbound freight train. The wreck caused fire, and two passenger coaches, one sleeping car and eight of the freight cars were burned, and another sleeping car was partly consumed.

The Dead:

GEORGE W. RUDIO, Western agent Kirk Soap Company; residence, Omaha.

MRS. GEORGE W. RUDIO, Omaha. D. O. NICHOLS, Council Bluffs, Ia. E. B. DUNCAN, sleeping car porter, Chicago.

Duncan, the sleeping car porter, was the only person killed outright. Mr. and Mrs. Rudio and Mr. Nichols died from their injuries while being brought to Chicago. At St. Luke's hospital it is stated that while several of the injured are in a serious condition, all, it is believed by the attending physicians, will recover.

Cleveland, Dec. 30.—Rev. W. L. Pickard, for the past four years pastor of the First Baptist church of this city has accepted a call to the First Baptist church at Lynchburg, Va.

When Dr. Pickard announced his determination to leave the church many of the congregation burst into tears.

President Not to Preside.

Washington, Dec. 30.—In a communication to Baron Coubertin, president of the Olympic games to be held in Chicago in 1904, President Roosevelt has indicated that it will not be possible for him to preside on that occasion, as it had been hoped he would. The President takes the keenest interest in the contests, which are to be the features of the games, and so expressed himself to Baron Coubertin, but regretted that for various reasons it would be impracticable for him to preside.

King Edward's Coronation

Although the coronation of King Edward will not occur until next June, the coming event is the one absorbing topic in England today, and all are eager to witness what will be the most gorgeous and elaborate ceremony of our time. Everywhere in Great Britain preparations are being made for it. The makers of fashionable robes, the court costumers and the jewelers are working overtime. A great deal of bustle and excitement is going on among the peers and peeresses who will be prominent in the spectacle, and new robes and coronets are being purchased. The question my lady is asking most just now is not, "Is my hat on straight?" but, "Is my crown on straight?" For them it will be the chance of a lifetime to appear in a coronet, for only at a coronation are they worn.

Rules and regulations governing what is to be worn by the nobility at the king's coronation have been issued by the earl marshal. The peers have been notified that their robes must be of "crimson velvet, edged with miniver, the cape furled with miniver pure, and powdered, with bars or rows of ermine, according to their degree." Barons will wear two rows, viscounts two rows and a half, earls three rows, marquises three and a half and dukes four rows. These mantles will be worn over "full court dress, uniforms or regiments."

Only the king and queen and the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall will wear jeweled coronets. The earl marshal's order banishes counterfeit pearls and all jewels from other coronets, which are to be "silver gilt, the caps of crimson velvet, turned with ermine, with gold tassels on top. No jewels or precious stones are to be set or used in coronets, nor counterfeits of pearls instead of silver balls." The number of the latter permitted revives a nice sense of distinction. A baron's coronet bears six silver balls, a viscount's sixteen, an earl's eight, with gold strawberry leaves between; a marquise's four balls and four leaves alternately. A duke's coronet has no balls and has only eight strawberry leaves.

The robes, mantles and coronets to be worn by the peeresses are of the same materials as the men's, with similar gradations in the number of bars of ermine and balls. The length of the trains marks the difference in rank. A baroness is only allowed a train of three feet, a viscountess has one and a quarter yards, countesses have one and a half yards, a marchioness has one and three-quarters yards and a duchess two yards.

No new crown will be made for the queen. King Edward's crown is to be slightly enlarged, but it will undergo no other modification. It weighs thirty-nine ounces and was made in 1838. Some of the finest jewels in the possession of England's monarch are in the crown. His majesty at the coronation will appear before his subjects in the same elaborate robes worn by his granduncle, George IV. This costume consists of three parts. The most important is the "dalmatica" or imperial robe. It is a three cornered mantle, forming an inverted Y, and fitted very closely about the shoulders. All over it are small embroidered crosses. Beneath it is worn the "supertunica," a sort of short pelerine, having sleeves of gold cloth embroidered with gold flowers. Above both dalmatica and supertunica is worn the "armilla," which is also of gold cloth, but has a deep ermine border. It is placed on the king's shoulders by the archbishop of Westminster.

The royal English state coach in which King Edward and his queen consort will ride to the coronation is an extraordinary vehicle and was built in 1761. It was designed by Sir William Chambers, and the paintings on it were executed by the famous Cipriani. Nothing like it in gorgeousness has ever constructed before or since.

The chair in which King Edward will be crowned is hundreds of years

There was an old woman who lived in a shoe, She had so many children she did not know what to do, She gave them some broth without any bread, She spanked them all soundly and put them to bed.

old and has been employed in the coronation of the kings and queens of England since the fourteenth century. It is made of oak, unpainted, and almost devoid of ornamentation. In fact, it looks like an ordinary old fashioned chimney corner armchair, and any one not acquainted with its history or the purpose for which it is employed would estimate its intrinsic value at about $5. The only thing remarkable about it is a piece of rough hewn stone inserted beneath the seat. That stone was brought from Scotland in 1296 by Edward I. of England. On it the kings of Scotland were formerly crowned. It was seized by the English as a trophy of war and taken to London, where it has since remained. It is known as the "stone of destiny."

The ceremony of administering the oath to King Edward at the coronation will be as follows:

The archbishop of Canterbury will ask, "Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this kingdom of Britain and the dominions thereto belonging according to the statutes in parliament agreed and the laws and customs of the same?"

His imperial majesty will then answer, "I solemnly promise so to do."

The archbishop will then ask, "Will you to the utmost of your power cause law and justice in mercy to be executed in all your judgments?"

King Edward—I will.

The Archbishop—Will you, to the utmost of your power, maintain the laws

QUEEN ALEXANDRA IN CORONATION ROBES.

of God, the true profession of the gospel, and the Protestant reformed religion established by the law and will you preserve unto the bishops and clergy of this realm and to the churches committed to their charge all such rights and privileges as by law do or shall appertain unto them or any of them?

King Edward—All this I promise to do.

After this his imperial majesty will lay his hand upon the holy gospel, saying, "The things which I have heretofore promised I will perform and keep, so help me God," whereupon he will kiss the Bible.

There will be a famous display of jewels at the coronation, and the beautiful peeresses will do their best to outshine one another in the brilliancy of their gems. If they cannot wear jewels on their heads they evidently plan to do so on their bodies, and all London jewelers are now busy making over and resetting heirlooms. Pearls, sapphires and emeralds are to be the favorite stones. Ropes of pearls are to be worn from the shoulders, as though fastening the velvet ruby robes, somewhat the same way in which Queen Alexandra wore them at the opening of parliament.

Undoubtedly the coronation of George IV. transcended almost any other ceremonial of this kind that has ever taken place. At 4 o'clock on the morning of his coronation ten miles of carriages were already wending their way toward Westminster. In public and private expenditure the ceremonial cost close upon two and a half millions. James II. did not aspire to such colossal display.

As near as can be estimated just now the coronation of King Edward will lift about $7,000,000 out of the pockets of government and peerage and high society generally and transfer it to London tradesfolk.

Charity's Choice.

"Mummy," said a small girl—"mummy, dear, I do wish I might give some money for poor children's dinners."

"So you may, darling."

"But, mummy, I haven't any money."

"Well, darling, if you like to go without sugar I will give you the money instead, and then you will have some."

The small child considered solemnly for a moment, and then said, "Must it be sugar, mummy?"

"Why, no, darling. I don't mind much. What would you like to do without?"

"How would soap do, mummy, then?" exclaimed the small maiden in triumph.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Race Against Time.

"William," said the colonel, "do you realize that you and I have got to swear off the first day of January next?"

"Yes, sir; I've been thinking 'bout it."

"Well, how much is left down there?"

"Over half a barrel, sir."

The colonel whistled a long, low whistle, looked out on the dreary landscape, pulled off his coat, hung it on a convenient peg and said:

"Bring me up a ton of coal, get me my slippers, have the daily newspapers sent to my room and tell everybody I'm not at home till after New Year's."—Atlanta Constitution.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature and of Matters About Town.

Father And Son Ill—W. S. Arbuthnot is dangerously ill of typhoid fever. His son is seriously ill of pneumonia.

Suffering From Pneumonia—Mrs. Martin, of Toronto, is ill of pneumonia at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. J. L. Kerr, in this city.

Ready to Move—T. F. Cassidy's new eight-room dwelling on Bank street has been completed and will be occupied by the family this week.

A Smoker Tonight—The Fainters' and Paperhangers' union will hold a smoker and entertainment in their hall, Smith Fowler building, tonight. The program contains a number of excellent numbers.

Three Baptized—Three children were baptized at the morning service at the M. P. church yesterday by Rev. W. H. Gladden. These were the first to be baptized in the church with water from the River Jordan.

No Arrests Over Sunday—For many months on Monday morning the city jail has failed to furnish its quota of happenings, but East Liverpool was very good over Sunday and there was no mayor's court this morning.

Gift to the Pastor—The King's Daughters of the M. P. church presented the pastor of the church, Rev. W. H. Gladden, with a handsome silk quilt. The token was presented to the pastor after prayer meeting service on Thursday evening by Mrs. Falls, on behalf of the members of the society.

May Attend State Board Meeting—One or two members of the local members of the board of health will perhaps attend the annual meeting of local and state boards which is to be held January 16 and 17 in Columbus. Invitations have been sent out by Dr. C. O. Probst, the state secretary.

M. P. Revival Services—Special meetings will begin at the First M. P. church next Sunday evening. The following Sunday and for some time Prof. Reese, of Scranton, Pa., will have charge of the music. As new heaters are being put into the church, the services during the first week will be held in the lecture room.

Postoffice Highly Perfumed—They don't cook onions, or cabbages or beefsteaks in the postoffice, although the odor of all these things and more pervades the place. The smells often get so strong that patrons get their mail and hurry out as fast as possible. Clerks and postoffice employees say the kitchen odors at times are simply sickening, and doors and windows have to be opened to give them air. A restaurant in the basement furnishes the ground for complaint.

FOR PENNSYLVANIA CAPITOL.

Joseph M. Huston, of Philadelphia, Chosen Architect.

Harrisburg, Dec. 30.—The capitol commission has selected Joseph M. Huston, of Philadelphia, architect for the new capitol, for which an appropriation of $4,000,000 was made by the last Legislature. By the terms of the act creating the commission the building must be completed not later than January, 1906. The building will be erected on the site of the present structure, which will probably form the superstructure of the new building. The buildings now occupied by the departments of agriculture and internal affairs will be removed, and all the departments will be concentrated in one building.

The commission announced the selection of Mr. Huston at the close of a meeting Saturday, and it is expected that a contractor will be chosen and work begun on the building within the next three months. The commission issued a formal statement Saturday night, explaining that after careful examination and consideration of all the plans entered in the competition, together with the report of Prof. William R. Ware, of Columbia college, consulting architect of the commission, Mr. Huston was unanimously agreed upon as architect for the building. The architects receiving the $1,000 reward each under the terms of the program of competition are as follows: Addison Hutton, Philadelphia; Herman Miller, Philadelphia; F. J. Osterling, Pittsburg; Trimble & Stevens, of Pittsburgh, and James H. Warner, of Lancaster. The names of the other competing architects are not made public by the commission.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Rosin and tallow in equal parts make an excellent covering for wounds in fruit trees.

"Belting" a tree—that is, killing it by destroying the bark in a circle around the trunk—injures it for lumber.

In transplanting trees all roots that have become bruised or broken should be cut clean away behind the broken part.

Trees should always be trimmed when young and growing in such a manner that there will be no necessity for cutting off large limbs.

Wood mold, provided it is fine and free from roots and sticks, with the addition of a little well rotted compost, makes a splendid soil for the pots or boxes in which to grow the house plants in winter.

Orchards generally produce full crops only every other year. This is because the full crop of one year so exhausts the fruit producing qualities of the soil that it is not able to make a full crop the next year.

The Linseed Poultice.

A dispensary doctor in the Emerald Isle is expected to dispense many things besides drugs.

His life is certainly not a bed of roses. These people are woefully ignorant, yet no Irishman likes to confess to want of adequate knowledge.

One day I ordered a linseed poultice to be put on an old man's chest. The next morning he was no better, and I was accused of incompetency.

"I put the plaster to him, your honor," said his wife, "though he spit an' spit like a big snail. But it ain't done no good! An', docthor, honey, it was a big dose!"

Then I realized Mrs. Moulton's method of poulticing her good man's chest. She had applied the soft mass internally!

Another time I compounded (we are our own dispensers in the Isle of Destiny) a box of pills for "brown kitties." The result of grinding these with a big stone and wearing the powder as a charm was not satisfactory. My verdict as "crown" certified "natural causes." It should have been given as "crass ignorance."—Good Words.

THREE WOMEN POISONED.

Ate Candy on Which Embalming Fluid Had Been Spilled.

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 30.—Three women are lying at the point of death at Blue Knob, this county, the results of eating candy saturated with embalming fluid. They are Rosa and Viola Ickes and Mrs. George F. Noffsger.

On Christmas eve twins of John Allison died, and the undertaker stood a bottle of embalming fluid on the sink. It upset and spilled some of the contents on the candy.

No one knew it, however, Saturday, Mrs. Allison treated her sisters, the Ickes girls, and her grandmother, Mrs. Noffsger, with the candy. They suddenly became deathly sick. Hoarseness, burning in their tongues, cheeks and mouths by the poisonous fluid, which also destroyed Mrs. Noffsger's false teeth. A doctor was summoned and soon discovered the cause of their illness.

The candy was destroyed before any others partook of it.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature and of Matters About Town.

Father And Son Ill—W. S. Arbuthnot is dangerously ill of typhoid fever. His son is seriously ill of pneumonia.

Ready to Move—T. F. Cassidy's new eight-room dwelling on Bank street has been completed and will be occupied by the family this week.

A Smoker Tonight—The Painters' and Paperhangers' union will hold a smoker and entertainment in their hall, Smith Fowler building, tonight. The program contains a number of excellent numbers.

Three Baptized—Three children were baptized at the morning service at the M. P. church yesterday by Rev. W. H. Gladden. These were the first to be baptized in the church with water from the River Jordan.

No Arrests Over Sunday—For many months on Monday morning the city jail has failed to furnish its quota of happenings, but East Liverpool was very good over Sunday and there was no mayor's court this morning.

Gift to the Pastor—The King's Daughters of the M. P. church presented the pastor of the church, Rev. W. H. Gladden, with a handsome silk quilt. The token was presented to the pastor after prayer meeting service on Thursday evening by Mrs. Falls, on behalf of the members of the society.

May Attend State Board Meeting—One or two members of the local members of the board of health will perhaps attend the annual meeting of local and state boards which is to be held January 16 and 17 in Columbus. Invitations have been sent out by Dr. C. O. Probst, the state secretary.

M. P. Revival Services—Special meetings will begin at the First M. P. church next Sunday evening. The following Sunday and for some time Prof. Reese, of Scranton, Pa., will have charge of the music. As new heaters are being put into the church, the services during the first week will be held in the lecture room.

Postoffice Highly Perfumed—They don't cook onions, or cabbages or beefsteaks in the postoffice, although the odor of all these things and more pervades the place. The smells often get so strong that patrons get their mail and hurry out as fast as possible. Clerks and postoffice employees say the kitchen odors at times are simply sickening, and doors and windows have to be opened to give them air. A restaurant in the basement furnishes the ground for complaint.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our thanks to General Lyon Post No. 44, G. A. R.; General George H. Thomas Council No. 8, O. U. A. M.; General Garfield Camp No. 3, Sons of Veterans; Mr. John S. Rinehart, the ministers, singers and many kind friends of East Liverpool and Toronto, O., for their assistance and sympathy in our hour of bereavement. 166-h

FOR PENNSYLVANIA CAPITOL.

Harrisburg, Dec. 30.—The capitol commission has selected Joseph M. Huston, of Philadelphia, architect for the new capitol, for which an appropriation of $4,000,000 was made by the last Legislature. By the terms of the act creating the commission the building must be completed not later than January, 1906. The building will be erected on the site of the present structure, which will probably form the superstructure of the new building. The buildings now occupied by the departments of agriculture and internal affairs will be removed, and all the departments will be concentrated in one building.

The commission announced the selection of Mr. Huston at the close of a meeting Saturday, and it is expected that a contractor will be chosen and work begun on the building within the next three months. The commission issued a formal statement Saturday night, explaining that after careful examination and consideration of all the plans entered in the competition, together with the report of Prof. William R. Ware, of Columbia college, consulting architect of the commission, Mr. Huston was unanimously agreed upon as architect for the building. The architects receiving the $1,000 reward each under the terms of the program of competition are as follows: Addison Hutton, Philadelphia; Herman Miller, Philadelphia; F. J. Osterling, Pittsburgh; Trimble & Stevens, of Pittsburgh; and James H. Warner, of Lancaster. The names of the other competing architects are not made public by the commission.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Rosin and tallow in equal parts make an excellent covering for wounds in fruit trees.

"Belting" a tree—that is, killing it by destroying the bark in a circle around the trunk—injures it for lumber.

A pan of water kept steaming in the stove will keep the atmosphere in good condition for the growth of house plants during the winter.

Trees should always be trimmed when young and growing in such a manner that there will be no necessity for cutting off large limbs.

Wood mold, provided it is fine and free from roots and sticks, with the addition of a little well rotted compost, makes a splendid soil for the pots or boxes in which to grow the house plants in winter.

Orchards generally produce full crops only every other year. This is because the full crop of one year so exhausts the fruit producing qualities of the soil that it is not able to make a full crop the next year.

The Linseed Poultice.

A dispensary doctor in the Emerald Isle is expected to dispense many things besides drugs.

His life is certainly not a bed of roses. These people are woefully ignorant, yet no Irishman likes to confess to want of adequate knowledge.

One day I ordered a linseed poultice to be put on an old man's chest. The next morning he was no better, and I was accused of incompetency.

"I put the plaster to him, your honor," said his wife, "though he spit an' spit like a big snail. But it ain't done no good! An', docthor, honey, it was a big dose!"

Then I realized Mrs. Moulton's method of poulticing her good man's chest. She had applied the soft mass internally! 166-h

Another time I compounded (we are our own dispensers in the Isle of Destiny) a box of pills for "brown kitties." The result of grinding these with a big stone and wearing the powder as a charm was not satisfactory. My verdict as "crownier" certified "natural causes." It should have been given as "crass ignorance."—Good Words.
